Threats to Get Scalps of Those Who Attacked
Voigt Reported to Have Been Made.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—
George J. Voigt, the Washington publisher whose brilliant playing throughout the present season has earned him to be regarded as a likely contender for the national amateur championship, has been disqualified by the District of Columbia Golf Association and barred from participating in the District. His disqualification was announced last night before the United States Golf Association for a ruling upon his amateur standing at large.

The fatal "No" McLean.
The fact that makes Voigt's disqualification so interesting to persons other than golfers is something not generally known about Washington.
Voigt is the latest victim of that singular facility which seems to pursue the playmates of "No."
The millionaire newspaper publisher.
An earlier victim, it will be recalled, was the former Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall, sometimes described by his own lawyers as the "Grand Old Man of Mexico" but otherwise mentioned by Senators and the prosecuting authorities as "a common swindler."

The revocation of Voigt's amateur standing in Washington was a shock to golfers throughout the country. In the last few months he had won the National Amateur and South Atlantic championships.
The Mason and Dixon championship, the Middle Atlantic title, and half a dozen others. He had played through five local invitation tournaments without losing a match. He had made the remarkable record of going through 10 rounds of match and medal play in four events. Walter Hagen declined him to be playing better golf than the average club amateur in the country, not excluding Bobby Jones.

But the ruling was no surprise here. Most Washington golfers have been expecting it for some time. They have been expecting it ever since last winter, when Voigt resigned his position as a treasurer mechanic in the Treasury Department, and entered the employ of McLean.

Publisher's Private "Proo." Mc-Lean's great wealth enables him to maintain a private 18-hole course on his estate, "Friendship," here. He is extremely fond of the game, and is a fair player.
Several years ago he established the country's most exclusive private club. The duties of the latter included partly in looking after McLean's course, but a more important part was to travel around the country, visiting the various clubs and playing golf with his employer. One of the first proposals to hold the job was Leo Diegel, now one of the finest players in the world.

McLean keeps a racing stable and is generally on his own horses. Likewise, he is known frequently to have bet on his own proprietor. The latter was entered in several races. Because he is a very wealthy man, McLean can afford good horses and he can afford good jockeys and he can afford to bet on himself.

A Golfing "Secretary." Three or four years ago he discounted the pretence of having a private "proo." but at the same time employed a prominent young man to act as a "secretary." Naturally, when McLean went to Palm Beach and Pinehurst, his "secretary" went with him, and they played time for a great deal of golf.
Voigt is a product of the Washington public courses and has played in local events for several years. He is 31 years old. He was regarded as a good average golfer.
But last year he was offered nothing more than a position as "secretary." The position was offered to Voigt. What the position is, has never been made precisely clear.
Some announcements have made him a member of the staff of the

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., July 26.—Myron T. Herrick, 63-year-old United States Ambassador to France, was operated on again today, the second time within 10 days.

Surgeons who attended him said
he reacted well and no complications were feared.

It was said that the first operation on July 17 was regarded as preliminary to the one performed today, and that today's development did not indicate unexpected trouble.

The Ambassador recovered quickly from the first operation, which was for a bladder ailment.
It was declared minor in nature.
Today's operation was admittedly more grave.

Drs. William E. Lower and John Phillips, who attended him in both cases, said after the operation today that Herrick was making satisfactory progress and did not appear in a dangerous condition.

"He Grabbed Her by Throat and Beat Her With Fists," Daughter Tells Police.

By the Associated Press.
FORT WORTH, Tex., July 26.—
Ruth Egan, 15-year-old high school student, today shot and killed her stepfather, W. H. Mason, 40, ice factory worker, because she feared he would seriously injure her mother, she told police.

Mason was shot four times shortly after he had called at the home of his wife, from whom he had been separated since last May.

He called mother to the automobile front of the house, "Ruth held investigators." He grabbed her by the throat and began beating her, with his fist. I shot him with my uncle's pistol because I thought he might kill her.

GIFT OF BUTTER TO COOLIDGE
President Chats With Visitors on Price of Tubs.

By the Associated Press.
RAPID CITY, S. D., July 26.—A group of dairymen who called on President Coolidge today to present a 25-pound tub of butter came away with the conviction that at some time in his life Mr. Coolidge must have presided at the churn.

He dipped a finger into the golden clay product and tasted it when the tub was opened on his desk.
Pronouncing it of excellent quality, he explained to the dairymen that the tub in which the butter had been packed cost 25 cents, he remarked that they used to sell for 20 cents.

"I see," said Mr. Coolidge, "that now the tubs are made of pine."
They used to be made of spruce."
The President remarked that 80 cents of the dairymen's dollar was lost during the farm depression, the dairy dollar retained a 100 per cent purchasing value. The butter presented Mr. Coolidge today was made by Joe Jorgensen of Huron.
S. D., national champion butter-maker in 1926.

Came to City in 1895—Held Many Public Jobs
but Was Ousted From Public Administratorship.

Frank M. Slater, Republican City
Committeeman and former Public Administrator, died in City Hospital at 9:10 a. m. today from the injuries suffered in a fall to the sidewalk from the second floor of his apartment at 3559 A Lindell boulevard last Friday night.

His chief injury, a depressed fracture of the skull, rendered him unconscious, so that no explanation of the apparent accident could be obtained from him. Slater was found on the sidewalk with a hall window screen, which he had pushed out in his fall, near him.
It is thought possible he dozed in the window and fell out.

Slater, who was 57 years old, was a bachelor, and lived in the apartment with his brother, Street Commissioner Joseph M. Slater, also a bachelor. He had been dieting in recent months to reduce his weight, and had succeeded in reducing from 265 to 215 pounds.
Physicians say the dieting may have caused dizziness, thus occasioning the fatal accident.

Two Terms as Justice.
He came here from Ohio in 1895,
and worked first as a wagon painter. He got into ward politics in the central section of the city, and showed ability in handling the Negro vote. His first city job was in the City Sanitarium. He was elected a justice of the peace, serving two terms. He was named repeatedly as member of the City Committee from what is now the Seventeenth ward. At one time a Negro factional fight threatened his control, but he held on as committeeman and obtained the nomination in 1916 for the lucrative office of Public Administrator.

He took the office after the election, but James P. Newell, Democrat, filed a contest, and a recount showed a small plurality for Newell, who thereupon took the office.
Slater sought the nomination in the 1920 primary, but was defeated.

In his tenure of a year as Public Administrator, Slater in some cases showed haste in filing on the estates of deceased persons. Similar methods by a previous holder of the office had brought widespread criticism. In one instance Slater's action, in sending agents to Texas to file on the estate of a Fort Worth man who had St.
Louis property, was criticised by Federal Judge Dyer, who ordered Slater displaced as asked by the family's counsel.

A letter was sent by Slater to undertakers, soliciting "any business you can send my way," and promising prompt settlement of undertakers' claims against estates. He explained that the letter was intended chiefly to acquaint the undertakers with his telephone number, and with the fact that a change had taken place in the office.

He was admitted to the bar in 1914, and engaged in law practice when not holding office. In 1922, a spectacular campaign was made against Slater, up for re-election as Seventeenth Ward Committeeman, by Mrs. Elbridge Fulk, sister of George H. Williams, latter United States Senator. Slater won.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 26.—
George R. Adams, 25 years old, and Berger Johnson, 33, Chicago aviators, were arrested here yesterday on charges of drunkenness. The men arrived in Los Angeles after a hop from San Bernardino.

Police were called to the flying field, where they landed, by reports of the peculiar antics of the plane, which swerved and lurched above the field.

Blockman, who became known as the "matinee burglar" because he usually entered homes in the afternoon while residents were absent, was given a sentence of from one to 10 years in prison, with a promise by the Judge that he would recommend a parole at the end of 11 months if the record made in prison is good.

Blockman admitted he had committed 21 burglaries. He was given credit for capturing 12 Germans in a machine-gun nest.

WICHITA, Kan., July 26.—Use of electric irons for cooking food for invalids and the serving of cold meals for others, proposed by the Women's Federation of Clubs for Wichita's second "gasless Tuesday."

The demonstration is in protest against an increase in rates charged by the city for gas.

Gas company officials asserted there had been a small increase in the city's total gas consumption since the housekeeping "strike" began.

he will marry today.

The inheritance came to young

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
McLEANSBORO, Ill., July 26.—
John Irvin, 45 years old, cashier of the First National Bank of this city, was found lying on the floor of the bank here this morning with a bullet in his head and a pistol lying about two feet from his right hand. Apparently he had been dead about 20 minutes. The discovery was made by William Harper, the assistant cashier.

Although all indications point to a suicide, there was apparently no reason whatever for the act.
Mr. Irvin apparently had been in the best of health and appeared to be in cheerful spirits just before entering the bank about 7 o'clock.

here today for the entry of Lena Wilson, a farmer's daughter, into the wealthy and socially prominent Stillman family of New York as the bride of James "Bud" Stillman.

Boats, buggies, motor cars and in fact almost every conceivable mode of conveyance carried the wedding guests. Many who were forced to travel particularly rough trails started last night, heavy rains having left the roads deep in mud. A big boat from Grand Piles started early this morning up
the St. Maurice River to LaTuque, picking up 200 guests along the banks.

Wearing their "Sunday's" Best, Garbed in their Sunday best,
they came to celebrate the forging into a reception hall.

ficers Give Chase.

Four men, who had been arrested for questioning after police noticed two license plates on the rear of their automobile, escaped from Dayton District police at 1 p. m.
today under heavy fire. More than 40 shots were fired at the fugitives.

Three officers in a police car stopped the suspects at Grand boulevard and North Market street to inquire about the collecting license plates. The occupants, apparently of foreign birth, were ordered to drive to the station after giving evasive replies, and one of the officers got in with them. Arriving at the station the officer on guard got out of the suspect's machine. Whereupon the driver stepped on the accelerator and sped along Jefferson avenue to O'Fallon street.

Capt. Fred Lang and five officers gave chase, shooting at the fugitives. The fleeing suspects went east on O'Fallon street to Fifteenth street. They car, with nine bullet holes, was found at Fifteenth and Howard streets. A cannvas is being made to see if any wounded men have applied to hospitals for treatment.

Expects to Be Back to Help
State Bring to Justice the Slayers of Lory Price and Wife.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
BENTON, Ill., July 26.—Art
Newman, former lieutenant of the Birger gang, sentenced to life imprisonment for conspiracy in the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, announced today that he would accept the verdict of the jury and go to Chester Penitentiary.

While Newman prepared to face his life sentence, counsel for Charlie Birger, condemned gang leader, laid plans to argue motion for a new trial before Circuit Judge Miller Thursday.

"I am not going to ask for a new trial or appeal," Newman told the correspondent. "I am unfortunate enough not to have any witnesses and to be without funds.
An appeal would not better my position, I feel, and so I shall accept the verdict of the jury."

"As I have said before, I had only a passive part in the murder of Joe Adams. I was a listener to the murder plot, but Joe Adams was not my enemy and I was not him. I had no reason to kill the man. That was Birger's passion."

Newman Ready to Aid State.
"I am going down to prison to make the best of my sentence.
They will have no trouble with me down there and I expect to come back and aid the State to bring to justice the murderers of Mr.
and Mrs. Lory Price."

Newman said that he would continue to aid the State wherever possible in clearing up the unsolved crimes of the Birger gang.

The gangster will go to Chester Thursday or Friday accompanied by his attorney, W. F. Dillon of Benton. His confession in 1928,
Price murders named Birger as the killer of State Highway Policeman
Miller and Leslie Simpson and Ernest Blue, two other Birger gangsters, as the slayers of Mrs.
Benton. His confession in 1928,
Price murders named Birger as the
killer of State Highway Policeman
Miller and Leslie Simpson and Benton.

Hyland Undecided.
Ray Hyland, Birger's odd job man, who got a life sentence for being in the Adams murder plot, has not yet decided whether he will appeal. It is not thought likely that Hyland will take action further than formal motion for a new trial. He was placed in the murder plot by strong direct testimony as the driver of the car in which Harry and Elmo Thomason, actual slayers of Adams, escaped. A new trial might bring Hyland a death sentence.
Lawyers representing Birger, in addition to their move for a new trial, are preparing an appeal to the Supreme Court based on alleged errors in the record. Birger is represented by Robert Smith of Benton, Scorial Thompson of Harrington, Charles A. Karch, of East St. Louis, former United States District Attorney for the Eastern District of Illinois, and Forrest Goodfellow of East St. Louis.

Funds for Birger.
Prior to the death verdict against Birger defense attorneys said that the gang leader was flat broke. It is understood that since Birger has been condemned to die new channels of revenue have opened and funds for an appeal are forthcoming.

A defense lawyer Saturday night told the correspondent that Birger was so badly strapped his lawyers might have to pay out of their fees for a transcript of the trial record to be used in the appeal.

Union Enters Contract, Starting
Sept. 1—Wages Reduced
From $66 to $60.

Beginning Sept. 1, under an agreement reached recently with the employers, union electrical workers of Local No. 1 will have the 40-hour week, or five days, at wages reduced from $66 to $60 a week. They have had a 44-hour week.

The daily wage scale, based on a rate of $1.50 an hour, remains unchanged, but under the new contract that has been signed and ratified by the union and which runs from July 15 to July 15, 1928, the wages of apprentices are raised from 50 to 60 cents an hour; third-year men from 60 to 80 cents and fourth-year men from 70 cents to $1 an hour.

The 156 members of the union who will continue to work five and a half days are maintenance, shop, crane and radio men.

An officer of the union said the first consideration of the change was to provide work for more men, and that 100 members of the union
now unemployed can be taken care of on part time.

About 600 members of the union will be affected by the change and have the two-day weekly holiday.

BOY, 17, ON BICYCLE KILLED BY STREET CAR

Arthur Lowenthal's Death Accident, Coroner Decides
After Inquest.

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death of Arthur Lowenthal, 17 years old, who was killed yesterday when run over by a Vandeventer avenue trolley car, in front of 1466 Tower Grove avenue.

It was testified that the youth, riding a bicycle beside the car, had reached out one of his hands to take hold of the side of the car, holding the handlebar of the bicycle with the other hand.

Theodore Reeves, of 2642A Highland avenue, testified he was driving his automobile in an opposite direction, on the other side of the street, when his attention was attracted by the boy riding on the left-hand side of the street.

Reeves testified that, as the boy touched the car, the front wheel of his bicycle wobbled and he fell beneath the car.

The front of the car passed over him and he was lodged in the front trucks, between the wheels. It was necessary to jack the car up before he could be removed.

He had gone on an errand for his father, Louis Lowenthal, to get some automobile parts at a nearby store and had ridden the bicycle to save time.

Charles J. Steinmetz, the motorman, and Anville C. Smith, conductor of the street car, did not testify.

amateur competition under that rule "which prohibits a player from making a living through the game, either directly or indirectly."

McLean Goes Down the Line.
It is a well known Washington tradition that "Ned" McLean likes to have his own way. In the present instance, matters were helped when certain players who were active in the investigation of Voigt's standing, reported that threats to "get their jobs" had been made. Some of these players were citizens of considerable standing in the community, and the resentment was intense and general.

McLean once testified before a senate committee that he had "gone down the line for a friend." The friend in that case was Albert B. Fall, and what happened to him is history, with more coming. Some "going down the line" was done in Voigt's behalf more recently, and now that also becomes history with perhaps more coming.

DAVID MAY'S LIFE PRAISED BY RABBI AT FUNERAL RITES

Dr. Samuel Sale, at Temple Israel, Calls Head of Department Stores "a Merchant Prince Indeed."

BUSINESS CONCERNS HONOR HIS MEMORY

"A True Son of His People, Work Was His Gospel"—Burial in New Mount Sinai Cemetery.

"A merchant prince indeed" was the term applied to David May, late chairman of the board of the Department Stores Co., in the funeral address delivered by Rabbi Samuel Sale at Temple Israel today.

Officers of Famous-Barr and of other large St. Louis stores and many business and personal friends attended the funeral. Famous-Barr was closed for the day, and other department and retail stores suspended activities for a five-minute period at 10:30 a. m., when the funeral began.

Mrs. May, who was 58 years old, died of heart disease Friday at his summer home in Charlevoix, Mich. A native of Germany and a former clerk, he was the head of an organization employing 14,000 persons.

"Only one people of the ancient world recognized and appreciated the full value and dignity of labor," Dr. Sale said. "This was the people of Israel. While the Greeks and Romans despised work as fit only for slaves, the people of Israel worshiped a God who worked six days and rested the seventh day, and who, in the Decalogue, commanded them to do the same. The Hebrew word for 'labor' is also the word meaning 'worship'."

"David May was a true son of his people. His life embodied this foundation principle of the ancient world. Work was his gospel. As he said, it was the key to the success which he achieved, in a long, useful and blessed life."

Happy at Daily Tasks.
"Carlyle said, 'Give me the man who sings while he works.' Such a man was Mr. May, who never was happier than when engaged in his daily tasks, with a song in his heart. To him, his co-workers were not mere hired hands; they were fellow beings with ambitions and hopes like himself. His great establishments were not crushing machines. Faithful workers, when unable to work longer, were thrown on the scrap heap, but generous provision was made for their old age by a pension system. Well might our schools, our National and local governments, copy the ways of this man who made money for thousands of others, and who spread joy and happiness."

"Best thou a man diligent in his work?" said Solomon, "he shall and before kings." David May was a merchant prince indeed, a true philanthropist."

A standard of lilacs and ferns marked the May family pew in the central section of the Temple auditorium. The bronze casket, lined with white plush, was in front, and was open. Many persons passed before the casket in the hour before the exercises began. The central section was reserved for relatives, notable guests, and officers of the May stores in St. Louis, Denver, Cleveland, Akron and Chicago. Flowers banked the front and side walls, the choir railing, and a tall candelabrum stood by the casket.

Of the pallbearers, six had served as executives in the May company from 23 to 35 years. The pallbearers were Louis M. Monheim, Fred Z. Salomon, Samuel R. Butler, William D. Long, Max Koenigsberg, Roy K. Lockhart, Alvin E. Goldman, Leo Keller of Paducah, Ky., and Charles M. Rice.

Selection of Organ.
The musical program consisted of organ selections, played by Arthur Lieber, Mendelssohn's "Con-solation" and Dvorak's "Going Home" from the numbers.

New Mount Sinai Cemetery was the place of interment, and the service there, conducted by Dr. Sale, was for members of the family only. The immediate family consisted of Mrs. May, who had three sons, three daughters, and a daughter-in-law.

Woman Quits Teaching, Becomes Student Flyer

MISS BERNICE TOWNSEND.

Miss Bernice Townsend of New Orleans Comes to Lambert Field for Instruction—Intends to Become Commercial Aviator.

In hope of getting a job as a commercial flyer, Miss Bernice Townsend has quit teaching English in the Jefferson High School at New Orleans to take a flying course at the Robertson Aircraft Corporation school at the Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field, Bridgeton.

"I've been interested in flying for many years," she said yesterday, as she finished examining the motor of a plane in which she was about to ascend. "But I never knew much about airplanes. I knew a lot of good looking aviators, though. Now I'm going to learn and get a commercial flying job."

"I've been teaching school for seven years," she continued, smoothing her dress and tucking her hair into an aviator's helmet. "Every summer I've laid away a little money to pay for a flying course. Oh, I've been up several times, but never with anyone who would teach me how to handle the stick."

"The first ride is a little disappointing, isn't it? But this is different. Mr. Brayton says I'm doing right well. I hope I am."

Clyde Brayton, chief aviation instructor, was lavish in praise of his pupil. With but three hours and 50 minutes' flying time to her credit, she made a perfect take off and landing, he said.

"She's an exceptionally good pilot," he added. "I had her up the other day and she was perfect. She didn't get one bit excited. Took her out over the Missouri River in a fog, gave her the stick and told her to fly home, and right back to the hangar she came. Good sense of direction."

Miss Townsend is learning to handle a plane in the air and on the ground and how to knock down and reassemble a motor. She lives at 5974 Hamilton terrace, Wellston.

T.B. McGRATH, DEAD IN FRANCE, FAMED AS A THIEF-TAKER

Ex-Detective Nationally Known for Ability to Recognize Any Crook Whom He Had Seen Once.

The body of Thomas B. McGrath, former city detective, will be brought to St. Louis from France, following his death from heart trouble during an automobile tour of the battle fields. A cablegram from Paris yesterday brought news of his sudden death to Mrs. McGrath, who lives at 6338 Delmar boulevard. He was 70 years old.

Mr. McGrath, who left the Police Department in 1905 after 21 years' service, was one of the most familiar figures in the city. He was tall and ruddy, until recent years wore a grizzled mustache, and had a quizzical expression which was heightened by spectacles. He spent much time about the Laclede Hotel, and could be seen in the hotel lobby or on the sidewalk almost any evening. He left July 15 for what was to be an extended European tour and remained to friends that he particularly desired to go to Italy and see Premier Mussolini. His death came shortly after his arrival in France.

Famed As Thief-Taker.
The first part of McGrath's police service was before the days of the Bertillon and fingerprint identification systems. McGrath became known, first locally and then nationally, for his ability to recognize, on all occasions, any crook whom he had once seen. "Tom raps to a crook a block away," his fellow detectives used to say. He made use of ordinary photographs when these were obtainable, but his chief reliance was on his remarkable memory for faces. He was often invited to other cities, at times of large conventions, and on such occasions he would make arrests himself and would identify suspects taken by others. His record of such service made McGrath known as a "gun-copper," or thief-taker.

He was equally known for his bravery. When, in 1892, he and Detective Dennis O'Connell cornered "Skippy" Rohan, a noted thief, then sought for murder, Rohan shot O'Connell and attempted to shoot McGrath, but his weapon missed fire. McGrath pounced upon him before he could reach the attempt, disarmed him, and after a tussle in which Rohan escaped for the moment, pursued him and caught him a block away.

"If Tom had been an instant slower," the wounded O'Connell said later, "Skippy would have killed us both."

Made Noted Captures.
In Carmody's saloon on Eighth street, McGrath once came upon a group which had attacked a young policeman. McGrath led two of the pair, one of those whom he arrested was "Soapy" Smith, a noted confidence man, later killed in the Yukon country. "Chappy" Moran, another noted police character, was in the group, but got away. One of McGrath's best arrests was that of a man named Wisdom, who was later hanged for years ago.

Boy Accidentally Shot by Playmate.
Robert Migneron, 12 years old, and Carl Kramer, 13, were playing yesterday in the cellar of the latter's home, 4429 Tennessee avenue, when Carl found his father's .22-caliber rifle on top of the furnace. He thought it was unloaded and pointed it at Robert, pulling the trigger. A bullet was discharged, striking Robert in the knee, and imbedding itself in the upper part of the boy's thigh.

GIRL, 3, SCALDED TO DEATH.

A coroner's jury in Belleville yesterday afternoon returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Ruth Waltheis, 3 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Waltheis, of 38 Columbia avenue, Belleville, who was scalded Sunday when she fell into a pan of boiling water.

An older sister was talking the pan to the bathroom and had set it down when the accident occurred.

Are Your Teeth Clean All Over?

Ask your mirror! When it tells you that tartar has formed in spite of faithful brushing, does it not prove that ordinary tooth brushes do not and can not reach all the tooth surfaces?

But when you use a Clean-Between, it is a different story. With the Clean-Between you can do real up-and-down brushing. Clean-Between can be adjusted to any desired position, first this way, then this way, to reach every surface of every tooth.

Foreign matter is swept from the crevices — pus collections are pressed from the gum-pock-ts.

At first, the Clean-Between costs slightly more than ordinary tooth brushes. The handle is made of beautifully colored bakelite, nickel-silver and rust-proof metal. But remember, it lasts a lifetime and renewable brush heads cost only 25c—so, in the long run this better tooth cleaning method costs you less.

GIRL, 3, PLAYING IN WINDOW, KILLED BY 7-FOOT FALL

Mother of Lois Lockhart in Hospital as a Result of Shock of Child's Death.

Lois Lockhart, 3 years old, died at St. Anthony's Hospital yesterday as the result of a seven-foot fall from the front window of her home last Thursday. The child lost her balance while playing in the window and broke through the screen.

The mother, Mrs. Virginia Lockhart, 3841 Potomac street, is under care of physicians at the hospital as a result of shock caused by the accident.

Two of 3 Men Under Arrest Confess $1000 Jewelry Theft.

Two of three men under arrest at East St. Louis have confessed robbing a rooming house at 507A St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, last Friday and have implicated the third man, police announced today.

Arthur Thompson of 812 Ann avenue, St. Louis and George Putnick of Granite City confessed, according to East St. Louis police, they robbed Gertrude Irwin, proprietor of the rooming house, of a diamond pin valued at $1000, and two other women and two men in the house at the time of $107. They told police a third man also was arrested directed the robbery and waited outside in an automobile.

VICTIM OF TRAIN IDENTIFIED.
Body of Ernest Lanning of East St. Louis Returned From McLeansboro.

The body of Ernest Lanning, 30 years old, of 208 North Seventeenth street, East St. Louis, who fell off a freight train near McLeansboro, Ill., last Thursday and was killed, has been brought back to East St. Louis for burial this afternoon.

The youth boarded a Louisville & Nashville freight train to visit friends at McLeansboro. His body was held at McLeansboro until yesterday awaiting identification.

the murder of his employer, a St. Louis tobacco merchant.

William Desmond, who was for years Chief of Detectives, O'Connell and Pat Lawler, all now dead, were among McGrath's closest associates in his police work. After leaving the department, McGrath opened a saloon at Eighth and Olive streets, known as McGrath & McMahon's. There, on the night of Feb. 27, 1907, former Detective George G. Williams shot Lee Killian, a former detective, inflicting a wound from which Killian died.

McGrath supported Williams' story of self-defense, and testified that he and his brother, Pierce Killian, attacked Williams, Pierce and Don Killian denied this, declaring that their brother was shot while helplessly drunk. Williams was acquitted by a jury. The two other Killians later met violent deaths, Pierce being shot accidentally by a policeman last year.

Retired From Business.
Because of the Williams-Killian tragedy, Excise Commissioner Mulvihill revoked McGrath & McMahon's saloon license. Friends say that McGrath had accumulated enough to live on and that he had his money placed in trust, under an arrangement which gave him an income. He was connected for a time with a brokerage business.

He received several offers of executive positions in private detective concerns, but chose to spend his later years at leisure. He made a tour of Europe several years ago.

$10,000 IN ART PIECES STOLEN FROM MUSEUM

Robbers at Metropolitan in New York Took Miniatures Painted on Ivory.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 26.—After working a week apparently without finding a single clew, police last night revealed that the supposedly impregnable Metropolitan Museum of Art, treasure house of many of the world's most famous examples of art, had been entered last Monday by thieves who stole five miniature portraits on ivory, some of them 150 years old.

The miniatures, four of them works of English masters of the eighteenth century, were framed in engraved gold and encircled with more than 400 rhinestones. All had been securely fastened inside of a glass show case adjacent to the J. Pierpont Morgan collection on the second floor.

The theft was discovered last Tuesday when the museum was opened. The show case had been opened, probably with a skeleton key.

Police are puzzled by the fact that the thieves, surrounded by millions of dollars worth of art—much of it, of course, too bulky to be stolen—chose to make off with the miniatures which, intrinsically, are said to be valued at $10,000. Members of the museum's staff place their artistic value much higher, but give no figures.

They are convinced that no attempt will be made to dispose of the miniatures in this country. A description of the pieces stolen has been sent to European police centers.

A watchman usually stationed near the collection was ill July 18 and was not replaced that night.

LIQUOR RAIDS IN BELLEVILLE.
Two Saloon Keepers Arrested by Federal Dry Agents.

Prohibition agents paid another visit to Belleville yesterday and arrested two saloon keepers on charges of selling home-made beer and whisky. The men arrested are Cordell Lashly, proprietor of a saloon at 1416 West Main street, and Louis Gassner, who runs a saloon at 401 North Illinois avenue.

The arrest of Lashly and Gassner brings the total number of arrests made in Belleville since the wholesale raids of July 15, to 55. Prohibition agents on that day arrested 37 persons, two of them women, on charges of violating the prohibition laws. The agents then were armed with more than 50 search warrants, but word they were in town spread rapidly, and they found many places closed when they went to search them.

INSURANCE AGENT MISSING.
Rudolph Knobelsdorf Went for Auto Ride Saturday, Wife Says.

Mrs. Emma Knobelsdorf of 2957 Westminster place, has asked police to search for her husband, Rudolph, 39 years old, an agent for the American National Insurance Co.

He went for an automobile ride Saturday afternoon and has not been heard from since, Mrs. Knobelsdorf said. She fears he has met with harm.

ONE OF TWO MEN CRUSHED UNDER 2-TON STONE DIES

Michael P. Monaghan, 59, Succumbs at City Hospital; Fellow Employee Recovering.

Michael P. Monaghan, 59 years old, of 1905 South Grand boulevard, died at City Hospital last night of internal injuries and compound fractures of the right leg, suffered earlier in the day when a two-ton stone fell on him as it was being loaded on a truck at the Pickel Stone Co., 1320 South Vandeventer avenue, where he was employed.

He was a widower. Otto King of 6501 Grace avenue, whose right leg was crushed by the same stone, is recovering at City Hospital.

FIREMAN KILLED IN AUTO CRASH.
Liquor-Laden Car Pursued by Police of Washington Hits Truck.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Dashing wildly along a road entering Washington early today a liquor-laden automobile caused the death of Lieut. Samuel L. Callahan, meritorious service man of the fire department, and the injury of three Negro women.

Pursued by a police flying squadron, the automobile crashed into a fire truck, righted itself and then collided with a machine in which the women were riding. One of the occupants of the pursued car was arrested. The other escaped.

Alleging the law providing for the tax is unconstitutional, the Chicago organization is sponsoring a suit filed in the Circuit Court of Kane County, in which an injunction restraining authorities from making the law effective is sought. The law provides a tax of 2 cents a gallon on all gasoline bought in the State by motorists.

HELD FOR DELIVERING LIQUOR

Police followed a man with a bundle under his arm last night, to find, after he had entered a saloon at 4300 Pleasant street, that their agent was good. When asked what the bundle, which he had placed on the floor, contained, he said he didn't know, but had been told to deliver it there. Examination revealed its contents to be five gallons of moonshine whisky. Arthur Sucks of 4456 North Twentieth street, who undertook delivery of the bundle, was arrested.

FREED BUT CALLED A COWARD FOR LETTING GIRL DIE

Coroner's Jury Finds Seattle Broker and Companions Morally but Not Criminally Responsible.

By the Associated Press. SEATTLE, Wash., July 26.—F. Creigh Nelson, wealthy Seattle clubman and broker, and two other men last night were branded by a Coroner's Jury as cowards and held morally but not criminally responsible for the death of Miss Violet Maude Payne, teacher of music and dancing, who presumably was drowned when she fell from Nelson's yacht here after a liquor party Wednesday last.

Although Prosecutor Ewing D. Colvin announced there would be no further investigation of the tragedy unless additional evidence is uncovered, Nelson was held under a $20,000 bond. The other men were freed.

Evidence was submitted indicating that the three men and Mrs. Winona Gorman, the fifth member of the party, stood by without making any real effort to rescue Miss Payne.

Death follows "Wild" Party. The Coroner's jury found Miss Payne met death when she accidentally slipped and fell into Lake Union while stepping from the boat to the Seattle Yacht Club dock after what was termed a "wild party" aboard the vessel. Nelson, Capt. A. F. Bell, skipper of the boat, and E. E. Barrington, assistant secretary of the Yacht Club—in the opinion of the jurors, made "no real effort to rescue the woman," but, on the contrary, stood by and watched her struggle for her life in the lake waters.

Further, the jury of four men and two women found that Nelson, Bell and Barrington conspired to conceal the fact of Miss Payne's death from police. Mrs. Gorman also was freed.

Broker Refuses to Testify. The jury returned their verdict after two hours' deliberation. Nelson refused to testify on advice of counsel.

"The evidence shows that, with the exception of Mrs. Gorman all members of the party—Nelson, Bell, Barrington and Miss Payne, the deceased—had during the evening consumed a large quantity of liquor," the jury report stated.

"Bell, while holding the exalted position of captain of the yacht, showed himself cowardly and unworthy of being in any position pertaining to boats. "The evidence shows that no real effort was made by him to rescue the deceased and in agreement with Barrington and Nelson they conspired to prevent publicity and to prevent reporting of the accident to police authorities. "We find by the evidence, that while not criminally liable, Nelson, Bell and Barrington are cowards and morally responsible for the death of Miss Payne." Attorneys for Nelson announced they would see today to have his bond vacated. Demand for a "more thorough investigation" was made today by Mrs. Maybelle Fiedler, sister of Miss Payne. Mrs. Fiedler went to the prosecutor's office today and declared the verdict of the Coroner's jury was "empty of significance." The jury's report served only to lead up to a point where a real investigation should be made, she said.

The Semi-Annual ONE-DAY SALE BEFORE STOCK-TAKING

TWICE EACH YEAR we present this widely known and vastly important event—Just before making our semi-annual inventory, we assemble from our stocks all sample lines, broken lots, odds and ends of every description, and offer them in a ONE-DAY SALE at such drastic reductions as to make sure of immediate disposal.

*Wednesday Is the Day—Selling Starts Promptly at 8:30
No Telephone, Mail or C. O. D. Orders Can Be Accepted*

The thousands of people who have attended our ONE-DAY SALES in the past are familiar with the marvelous values which always characterize this event and need no further invitation to attend. We wish, however, to remind them of the importance of being here early on Wednesday morning to take full advantage of the many money-saving opportunities.

The One-Day Sale is a store-wide event, embracing offerings in practically every department at prices dictated solely by our desire for quick disposal of the merchandise. Cost and former selling price are disregarded—in many instances items are priced at a mere fraction of their actual cost. Because of the vast number and variety of items included and the limited quantities available—in some instances only one or two of a kind—it is impossible for us to describe the offerings in detail or even to list them. To do so would inevitably create a demand beyond our power to supply. Hence, we simply invite you to come, assuring you that you will find, in every department, values fully equal to your highest expectations.

ONE-DAY SALE TAGS will guide you throughout the store to remarkable savings on goods that are desirable and seasonable. Apparel for women, misses, children and infants, Clothing and Furnishings for men and boys, Accessories of the summer mode, Fabrics, Linens, Bedding, Furniture, Draperies, Floorcoverings and Housewares—practically every department of the store offers values with an irresistible appeal to economical purchasers.

HELD FOR SWINDLING MEN SEEKING WIVES

Mrs. Lizzie M. Robinson in Jail in Default of $2000 Bond in Mail Charge

In default of $2000 bail, Mrs. Lizzie M. Robinson of 515 Chouteau avenue is held in jail on a charge of using the mails to defraud lonely men who cast about for wives through matrimonial journals.

She was arraigned before United States Commissioner Atkins yesterday on the specific charge of swindling J. J. Maxey, a chef of Melbourne, Fla., out of $7. Maxey claims he sent her that amount for living expenses after she had written him endearing letters describing her youthful charms and setting forth her desire to go to Florida to become his wife. Another letter followed asking for $15 for railroad fare, he alleged.

While she was writing these letters, Mrs. Robinson, large and blonde, apparently about 35 years old, was living with her lawful husband, George Robinson, postal inspectors who investigated the matter say. They came to St. Louis recently from Wichita, Kan., Robinson was held for investigation, but no Federal charge has been filed against him.

Maxey, the postal inspectors say, is only one of her victims. They claim she made a habit of scanning matrimonial publications, picking out men longing for mates and writing them touching letters that mingled requests for money with tender sentiments. Her letter-writing was under investigation by the Post Office Department at Wichita before she moved to St. Louis, the inspectors said.

Mrs. Robinson denied making any promises of marriage. She admitted writing letters to men, but said her requests for money had to do with a business enterprise.

CAUGHT IN GRAVEL SLIDE
Man Fought for Life While Sought on Truck Theft Charge.

By the Associated Press.
WAUKESHA, Ill., July 26.—While the Sheriff's office sought

Louis Starr of Antioch on a charge of grand larceny of a truck belonging to his employer, he was struggling for life in a gravel pit cave-in that had covered all but his neck and head. It was discovered yesterday.

Unknown to his employer, Starr took the truck to load gravel at the pit. The avalanche caught him and it was 24 hours before two boys discovered his plight. He was taken to a hospital and he is believed to be injured internally.

GRAND JURY TO GET EX-'DRAGON'S' BOXES

Judge Instructs the Investigating Body to Proceed With Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 26.—
Judge James A. Collins of the Marion County Criminal Court today instructed the grand jury to proceed into an inquiry "into willful and corrupt misconduct in public offices of every description," as provided by law, in connection with the charges of political corruption made by D. C. Stephenson, life term prisoner at the Indiana State prison. The grand jury also was instructed to inquire "into the violation of criminal laws generally, of which this Court has jurisdiction."

Referring to the original investigation of the charges by two previous grand juries, Judge Collins said that all the evidence that has been impounded up to the present was available to the new grand jury. He also said that in addition to that evidence, representatives of the Prosecutor's office had informed him they now had possession of a great mass of letters and documents which may prove valuable, but that it may take some time to go through the material to determine its value.

"Some valuable material," as William H. Remy, Marion County Prosecutor, termed the new evidence, came to light when the black boxes, which have been sought by the investigators ever since the first grand jury learned of their existence, gave up their contents.

Developments came rapidly after L. G. Hulan, former business associate of Stephenson, turned over the depositories of the Stephenson evidence to Emsley W. Johnson, special assistant prosecutor at Washington, Ind., Saturday. Johnson brought the boxes to Indianapolis and with Remy and other assistants, dug into the letters, tel-ograms, documents, lists of names, canceled checks, bank books and other material.

Two checks, one for $21,000 and the other for $24,000, were "interesting," the prosecutors said. A document which appeared to be a typewritten contract was said by Remy to "line up the whole business."

The Stephenson "bible" alleged to contain his information on transactions of public officials and to be his "low down" on the persons named was included in the array, declared the prosecutors.
Among the articles also was an orthodox Bible, the property of the former klanman.

BUY NOW! When you select your new Fur Coat in the August Sale you are certain—absolutely—of its quality. The pelts are the "pick of the catch." It is but natural that the best skins are used first. It is logical that the workmanship on garments fashioned before the midseason rush begins is always more painstaking. In fact, the August Sale presents the furs which are the very finest the market affords. It pays to buy now because frequently prices rise to a point where we are forced to discontinue a popular style—BUY NOW! Months of careful preparation and study on the part of Kline Fur Specialists have brought together this remarkable collection—remarkable in quality, in style and in value. There are never any regrets when investments in Furs are made at Kline's.

INDICTED OIL MAN DISCLOSED DEALS IN JULIAN CRASH

Grand Jury Record Shows
S. C. Lewis Told of $10,000,000 Offer for Testimony.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 26.—S. C. Lewis, indicted ex-president of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, is disclosed in records of the Los Angeles County grand jury investigation of the financial collapse of the corporation to have testified that he had been offered $10,000,000 to obtain evidence against Los Angeles financiers and brokers.

Lewis declared that the offer was made to him in a telephone call from San Francisco and named Gavin McNab, San Francisco, attorney, as the person who made the offer.

McNab, who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday, denied he had made such an offer. "I know nothing whatever about it," he said.

McNab also said he had no information concerning a telegram which Lewis said he had sent McNab asking for his assistance in the rehabilitation of the Julian company.

Lewis Charges Betrayal.
The 19 volumes of testimony of 100 witnesses also disclosed allegations that Deputy District Attorney Harold L. Davis had blocked Lewis when the latter accused C. C. Julian, former head of the corporation, of obtaining $350,000 from Jack Bennett, alias Jacob Berman, who was Lewis' aid in the management of Julian affairs. Bennett, or Berman, is the man whom Lewis accused of having betrayed him after the two had lived together and conducted their affairs over a period of years on a $0-50 basis.

Other witnesses charged that Bennett had been the "man behind the throne" in conducting pool operations and an over-all totaling 4,200,000 shares.

Describing himself as the "country's prize boob," Harry J. Bauer, millionaire attorney, told the grand jury how he had lost more than $300,000 in five months of speculation in Julian stock.

Names Senator Johnson's Son.
The grand jury also showed testimony that Archie M. Johnson of San Francisco and George M. Bauer, vice president of the American National Bank of San Francisco, contracted with Lewis on Dec. 20, 1926, to purchase 20,000 shares of Julian preferred in the Los Angeles market with the understanding that Lewis would guarantee them a 5-point profit at the end of 90 days. Johnson, an attorney, is a son of United States Senator Hiram Johnson.

The Bauer-Johnson pool made a profit of $38,000 on the deal, according to Lewis' testimony.

Daughter Speeds to Armour.
By the Associated Press.
SOUTHAMPTON, England, July 26.—Mrs. John J. Mitchell Jr., daughter of J. Ogden Armour, and her husband landed from the B. R. mile trip from California to visit her engaria here today, after a 7000-Armour, who has been ill in London. Mitchell said that he and his wife had been in touch by radio voyage.

WHERE THE "FIFTY-FIFTY" MARRIAGE FALLS DOWN

A Husband Who Tried It Says He Found That Keeping Up His End of the Housework Was Too Much for Him.

HERE are two sides to the "fifty-fifty" marriage. The office side isn't so bad. The housewife can hold up her end of the housework, it is different. But when it comes to splitting the housework, it is different. Few husbands can stand the strain. Later on the sorry tale of this husband who couldn't.

"I have been a fifty-fifty husband, but never again. I'm off of it for life. It's too hard. The housekeeping end, I mean. I couldn't hold up my end of that."

"I owe what success I have to a situation which began by being romantic. I mean, that I was a poor young man and I married an ambitious and thrifty girl, who had a certain cool good sense which I have never ceased to admire. There was to be a 'fifty-fifty' home, in which we would have a cleaning woman and would attend to the house ourselves. In a year's time we were on the point of divorce; at least, I thought that we were. My wife knew better."

"She had distrusted the arrangement from the first; said the man didn't live who would really take hold of a home and do as much work, and for it as a woman. I disagreed. I had been brought up to help my mother and not be ashamed of it. So we divided the work."

"I can look back now and see that she deliberately made it so that I actually have my half of the work, and that that was the very thing that I hadn't thought I would have to do. Yes, sir—I'll own it to now, though I do claim that it was sort of subconscious."

"In the first enthusiasm of being married I agreed that certain jobs should be mine. I'd wash the dishes one night while my wife got the dinner, and the next night we'd reverse it. I'd dust the living room, and put things to rights Sunday morning, when the maid didn't come, and she'd get dinner. Splits like that. Well, the truth is that I didn't do my jobs and my wife just let 'em lie. Then I'd get at six and seven, and I'd kind of sulk. I guess, and she'd be real and superior."

"I got so that we'd go anywhere rather than home; at least, together. I'd make excuses to stay out, and she'd have to work late. Finally, we had one awful quarrel and then I sat down and figured it out and we had a straight talk. She told me she never knew a man who could really stand the wear and tear of keeping a house in order, and that now it was up to me to make good so that she could stay home and shoulder the job."

What They Think of Working Wives

Is the woman who goes outside her home to earn a salary an asset to that home and to society generally?

Or is the American home breaking down and disappearing partially because of her?

Here are some more answers:

Husbands Harmed by

Wives Who Help

HAVING been a working wife for 10 years I want to go on record as being dead against it. In the first place my observation has been that no matter what the circumstances, it never works out. The married woman who works to help out her husband's ambition, she becomes extravagant and soon has false values in regard to the worth while things of life.

Personally, I know one working wife who works to buy oriental rugs and luxuries that she could well do without. She buys all sorts of fads and things that she rarely has use for. If she were taking care of her home she would not indulge herself in these vanities and she would not have false values regarding their importance to happiness. People naturally take the line of least resistance and the majority of men soon get used to the idea of the wife paying her part of the expenses if she works. Every day women tell me how hard they are at home and how they would like to have something to occupy their time. If they conscientiously did their part in making a home in every sense of the word and keeping their husbands interested, they would find very little time to become bored.

I am what is known as a successful business woman but I would gladly change my seemingly interesting career for that of being a real wife and mother.

WANTS ANOTHER CHANCE:

Takes Wife and Mother To Make a Home

WHEN two persons become husband and wife, a new home is supposed to be inaugurated. The husband's four walls do not make it. Only a wife can do that. Her gracious presence is not the least feature contributing thereto. No matter what the business or profession she has attended to or what her place is now at home, for her own and for his good, she should for the good of those who in these latter days too often fail to thrive. It may be that she feels under obligation to contribute. If some arrangement or "some" employment should be adopted. The happiness and content-

This part of the "fifty-fifty" isn't so bad, but when it comes to splitting the housework...

since I had proven that I wasn't up to it.

"She made me keep right on taking care of the house until I did begin to make good, and then she took charge. And I rise to remembers are in such a wholesale way, unreasonably dealt with, it is not strange that the American home is disappearing. And only disaster can follow. The really high-grade child comes as a result of real love and a happy home life, superior to having a child in the business woman's home."

The divorce rate goes to prove it. "Companionate marriages" in the offing. There is no room for argument on this point. The individual owes something to his country.

G. P. SPENCER.

Grandma Nurse Girl for

Working Wives' Children

I HAVE read Lucy Lowell's article on "Working Wives." I wonder if she really thinks some women don't have children because of cramped conditions in the city. It is usually the ones who are in the most cramped conditions that have them, and I think it is more lack of money than lack of space that prompts most women to go childless. And are there any more children raised in the country?

marked that I'm making $12,000 a year, and mean to keep on doing it or better. I gotta! If I don't that little lady of mine will get me back doing housework, and that's the hardest job in the world. I own up that it's too much for me. I never get over the admiration that I have for my wife, when I get home—cool and competent, with her job running like greased wheels on ice, everything attended to and nothing on her mind for the evening except to read or listen to the radio or play cards, or argue with me about things that I never have head enough to even understand. Fifty-fifty has no advocate in me. It's too hard on the man!

where they have the space? There are in comparison just as many childless families in the country as in the city, so tell me what has space got to do with it?

Another good reason women don't have children is because of the idea men have that it isn't necessary for them to support a family unless they have help. It is just because of such publications that more men are falling every day into the line of those who think their wives should work outside the home and raise a family too. Raising a family is a big enough job for anyone and more than most of them can do well.

Sue Robinson of Elden, Mo., has wonderful ideas about women working and leaving their children with grandmother. How many women have grandmothers and even if they did have didn't grandmother raise her own? When a woman has reached the age when she should have a little peace and harmony she shouldn't be tormented by other people's children. I guess the excuse would be—grandmother loves children. No—childless home is far superior to pushing them off on grandma. She, Sue Robinson, says isn't that far from real love and a happy home life, superior to having a child for your child? Personally I think it is much worse. If she had to pay grandmother what she would have to pay a maid—she'd probably take care of her own—most grandmothers get a place to sleep and a bite to eat and that's all.

In ever, block in this city I'll guarantee there is at least one grandmother taking care of a child while her daughter goes out to work and play this help-mate stuff to some able-bodied man. Why not a little bit of its mother to your mother as well?

Unless under unusual circumstances, a man should make a living and a wife take care of her children; for no person could ever be to a child what its mother should be, and therefore it should be raised by the mother.

The worst of it is my children's grandmother has to go out and work too, playing helpmate to her old man.

Better a Working Wife Than a Cuddling Wife

TIME and again I have read some sarcastic remark in newspapers and magazines condemning the working wife and when I read them I just imagine it is some millionaire or a person that is in such good circumstances they don't have to count their nickels like some of us poor unfortunates.

His Wife Is Running the House Now and He Is Hustling to Make the Living. So She Can Keep on Running It.

I am very glad to see the letters from other working wives and if these knockers were just a little broadminded they wouldn't knock us so much.

In my case, I could stay at home, sleep late and do my washing, living in a furnished room, because I know. I have tried to stay home and on the average man's salary you can have no extra money. Just enough to make ends meet. No clothes, no recreation and an awful lot of leisure hours which can lead to a lot of mischievous hours.

I know girls whose husbands make small salaries and they stay at home, but find a good bit of time with other playmates, while their husbands slave. Of course, that is not right and a girl can keep from those things, but this is the idea: Is it not better for a wife who has too much leisure time to be working and helping make life more comfortable, both for herself and husband, than to be sitting at home with nothing to do or running around?

I know on my husband's salary I cannot spend hardly any time on recreation. Now, with our salaries together we manage to have a comfortable home and all our fun together.

As far as wives with children working I think that is their own business. Every one has their expenses and we don't know why the other fellow is working. Possibly their reason may be far better than yours. But why can't the women ever get next to themselves, as the saying goes, and quit knocking their own sex?

As far as women not wanting children, it isn't that I do not long for a child of my own but I have not been so fortunate as some in that respect, so why not help my husband while I can instead of brooding over it?

I know that I make my life and his far more happier by my working and I am just like the other wives. I don't know what I would do without my job.

CHARGES U.S. WITH BACKING MINORITY RULE IN NICARAGUA

Washington Follows "Insane and Brutal Policy" for "Own Material Interests," T. P. Moffat Says.

CITES DIAZ CASE TO SUPPORT VIEW

Asserts Intervention in South Is Exercised by Military Force Without Consent of Congress.

DURHAM, N. H., July 26.—The United States Government was accused by Thomas P. Moffat, former member of the Nicaraguan Mixed Claims Commission and a veteran of the American Consular Service of having followed for 16 years the "insane and brutal policy—prompted by our own material interests—of continuing to deny the rule of a majority in that country."

Moffat's charges were contained in his speech on "The United States Relations with Nicaragua," delivered at the opening session of a two-day conference on the Latin-American relations of the United States, which opened yesterday at the University of New Hampshire. Edward Morgan Lewis, president-elect of the University, is honorary chairman of the conference.

The argument offered by Moffat in support of his attack on this government's policy centered about President Adolfo Diaz of Nicaragua. The speaker said Diaz, in 1909, was a minor employee of business associates and friends of Secretary of State Philander C. Knox.

Back in 1911, said Moffat, Diaz, because he was a non-military man and was lacking in business and administrative experience, was believed to be a poor candidate for president but was made vice-president. Estrada soon was forced out and Diaz became president. Three thousand Marines were rushed to his aid in the following year and he was elected president in 1913 and served until 1917.

Powerful Influence Behind Him. The speaker then undertook to show that exactly the same thing took place in 1916 as had taken place in 1912 when Marines were sent to Nicaragua to support Diaz. Concerning this, Moffat said: "Diaz once more in the saddle, made the same appeal, and received the same effective help in maintaining his feeble regime as in 1912. There must assuredly be some powerful influence behind him, for his call for aid was responded to even before he had been recognized."

"Concerning the rights and status of Vice President Sacasa following the resignation of Solorzano, competent legal authority, both in the United States and Nicaragua, has declared that Sacasa, upon the registration of Solorzano, succeeded lawfully whether he was in or out of the country at the time. Some of the reasons why the Marines were sent to Nicaragua might be described as pitiful. The lives and property of Americans were at no time in danger. Reference to a protection of our canal interests was ridiculed as that project exists only on paper. Its construction, if ever undertaken, will be welcomed by any faction that might be in power."

May Have to Remain. "All our Marines are out of Nicaragua excepting 1200, who will remain until after the 1928 elections are held. Should the 1928 election result in defeating the will of a majority of the voters, it may be that under our present form of intervention the Marines will have to remain indefinitely."

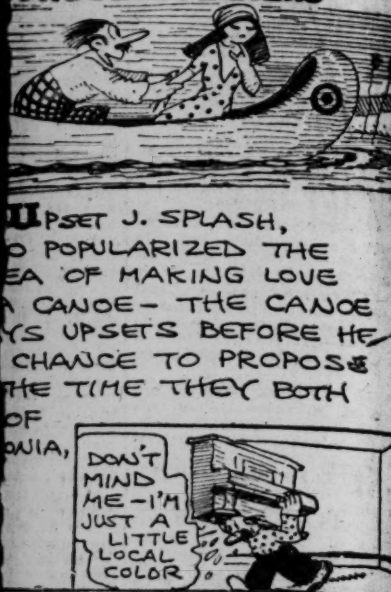

"Notwithstanding all official alibis in the matter, it appears to be the well founded impression that the Marines were necessary to save Diaz and his not any too loyal forces from certain defeat by the forces commanded by Gen. Moncada."

"Augmenting this support it was finally necessary for the President of the United States to send his official representative to Nicaragua, who, after many conferences, resorted to pressure, and what was considered to be a threat, thus compelling the Sacasa forces to agree to lay down their arms. As the New York World recently commented editorially: "Don Adolfo Diaz is regarded throughout Latin-America as the paid agent of the American aggression. It is known that he never would be President but for the intervention of the United States."

You may ask what are my reactions as to what has been done in Nicaragua since 1917? "I shall state a few for your thoughtful consideration: "First: We have, through all-

Detroit's City-Owned Trolleys
With 6-Cent Fare Have Made $13,000,000 Profit in 5 YearsThis Goes to Reduction of Bonded Debt, That Is, Back Into Public Pocket—System Pays $700,000 a Year in Taxes, Too.By WILLIAM F. ALLEN, A Staff Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 26.—This city has just completed five years' experience with municipal ownership and operation of its street railways. During the five years the operation has been subjected to more severe criticism from within the city than from without. Wherever taxes have been paid, owners of railroads have sensed any sentiment for municipal ownership, they have pointed a finger of suspicion at Detroit. Politics rampant, they suggest; tricks with figures to make the books show a well-being that is not actual; above all, bad service.

Now at the end of five years, the city-owned system is emerging with facts clarified and a record that, while not perfect, contains some striking accomplishments and the promise of further betterments.

Showing of Company. The trolley system has been more than 6 cents, with a penny transfer, paid by about one-third the riders. For a time, the system subsisted on a 5-cent fare—the only rate in the country with so low a rate. Upon that fare the company's records show the following major accomplishments:

All expenses have been paid and the company has earned a profit of $13,000,000, which has been applied to reduce its bonded debt. This is the sum which, had the company been owned by individuals, would have been paid to stockholders in dividends. Instead, it goes back to the pockets of citizens.

Moreover, the company carries all of the expenses common to private companies. It pays $700,000 a year in taxes. It pays for the street railway company is created between the tracks and, because Detroit is widening many streets, this item has amounted to more than $1,000,000. There can be no subsidy from other city funds. The street railway company is created by its charter a thing apart from the city government. Its only money comes from the fare of its riders.

Problem of Growth to Meet. As to service, perhaps no city in the country, during the five years, has presented so harassing a problem in transportation. Except for Los Angeles, Detroit is the fastest growing American city. New thousands were appearing monthly demanding to be carried. New residence sections were being built up rapidly. Keeping pace with the growth of the city was a task nothing short of stupendous.

The city-owned railways, in the five years, has bought or contracted to buy 600 new street cars, has placed in service to new residence districts—110 of them, most of them pneumatic-tired, traveling routes totaling 180 miles. Approximately 27 miles of street car extensions were built. The residence areas were by the street cars and buses has been doubled in the five years.

The property that Mayor Couzens bought in 1922 from the Detroit United Railways was in bad repair. During the years in which the city and company had been in litigation, the company had permitted the property to deteriorate, spending virtually nothing for maintenance, disbursing all earnings in dividends. In the five years that followed purchase, the city has rebuilt an average of 100 miles of overhead trolleys each year. It is repainting old cars at the rate of 80 a month. So far this year, 10 miles of track have been reconstructed in modern, heavy-rail fashion. Five new car substations have been built. The property today is in better physical shape than at any time in its history. The dense traffic of Detroit presents operating difficulties. Yet, it is asserted that the average speed of Detroit street cars is the highest of the large cities of the country.

Subway Plan Proposed. No one pretends that service is satisfactory in all sections and to all of the half-billion passengers carried yearly. Detroit recognizes that it is outgrowing surface transportation and that rapid transit is needed. A rapid transit commission was ready this year to submit the first unit of a $280,000,000 subway plan. The vote was postponed from last April, because Detroit at the time was suffering from partial industrial depression. Moreover, street-widening projects had placed a burden upon property and it was felt that the burden should not be increased until the city had recovered industrially. In previous votes upon legislation required for the establishment of subways, voters have by 70 per cent indicated their desire for rapid transit.

The surface lines, in their prosperity, are expected to contribute something to rapid transit. Any subways which Detroit may build will be co-ordinated with the surface lines, which, by 1931, will have paid off the last of the $19,000,000 paid to the old private company for its property. There will remain only $22,000,000 of debt, money spent by the city in building municipal lines before the private company surrendered. The railway then will find itself financially able to reduce fares, though this is not likely. The city feels that 6 cents is not too much and that surpluses should be stored for expenditure for rapid transit. One cent in fare will produce $3,500,000 annually.

There remains one charge frequently aimed at the municipally operated system—that the politics interfere with it. The correspondent suggested as much to one of the three citizens who serve without pay as street car commissioners.

Politics Charge Denied. He exploded. "We are appointed by the Mayor, but we take orders from no one, the Mayor included," the commissioner said. "We run this system as we would our own business. We do not permit politics to enter the street-car business."

The same question was put to D. A. Smith, general manager. Smith has been with the Detroit railways for 24 years, so that his appointment cannot be regarded as a political favor. He came out of the ranks. Smith said that his conduct of the company was not embarrassed by political requests. "We have 6500 employees," he said. "The turnover has been reduced to less than 1/4 of 1 per cent a month, a record which many private industries envy. We pay, in Chicago, the highest wages in the country to our trainmen. Politics, in the meaning that is intended in the criticism, may be said to be virtually absent."

Senator Couzens, during his operation of the railways, often said that the Mayor who would play politics with the railways was "a fool." "Good street car service will give a Mayor greater strength with his people than any political machine," Couzens said.

Situation at Present. It is true that the present city administration, from time to time, has been charged with playing politics. It is likely that there are more politics in the Detroit railways than at any time since the city bought them, but it also is true that no ill effect has yet been felt upon service or the freedom of the managers of the railways to conduct its vital affairs.

Detroit required many years to acquire its railways. The city and riders were dissatisfied with service and the lack of desire of the owners of the railways to be carried. There grew up a definite sentiment for municipal ownership, the platform that carried Couzens to the Mayor's office. Couzens asked $15,000,000 for the construction of new lines which the growing community needed, but which the private company was unwilling to build. When the money was voted, Couzens began a war of extinction upon the old company.

Fight to Take Over Lines. He told the President of the Woodward avenue and Fourth street lines, comparable in revenue importance to the Olive and Broadway lines in St. Louis, which he desired to "top off" the private company and annex to the city lines. There had intervened a fortuitous event. The franchisees of these lines had expired. They were being operated upon day-to-day permits and Couzens made overtures to the company for purchase of its property—its entire property. The company demanded approximately $33,500,000, an exorbitant price. Couzens scaled it down to $20,000,000 and asked the public to ratify the price. It refused. The price still was too high.

Couzens accepted the verdict and intensified his war against the company. He ordered it to remove its tracks from Woodward avenue. That started the legal struggle which required eight years for an issue. In 1921, the United States Supreme Court held that the company was without a franchise and the city, if it chose, could tear up the Woodward avenue tracks. The company capitulated. Couzens drove a hard bargain. He hammered down the $33,500,000 original demand of the company to a price of $19,000,000 and the city took over the lines.

TYPHOON OVERTURNS JUNK By the Associated Press.
LONDON, July 26.—The overturning of a large Chinese passenger junk during a typhoon, with the loss of 150 lives, is reported from Hongkong. Two launches towing the junk were sunk. The junk was bound from Canton to Hongkong.

Autos Increasing in Japan. By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, July 26.—Taxes on motor cars and the high cost of gasoline apparently have had little effect on the importation of automobiles in Japan. Government figures show that approximately 50,000 motor vehicles are in use in this country, of which Tokyo possesses 12,500. In 1912 there were only about 500 automobiles in the empire, the increase during the past 15 years having been about 30 or 40 per cent per year.

RAPID CITY, S. D., July 26.—Mrs. Coolidge motored to New Castle, Wyo., today to attend the wedding of Miss Dorothy Mondell, daughter of the former Congressman, and Alexander W. Gregg, chief counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau. She was accompanied by Col. Blanton Winslip, the President's aid, and Secretary and Mrs. Everett Sanders.

A heavy rain was falling when the party set out from the summer White House, but little trouble was anticipated in making the 60-mile journey over the mountains in a large White House limousine.

Mrs. Coolidge, carrying a brightly-colored striped shawl, leaned out of the car to wave good-by to the President, who stood on the porch. Mr. Coolidge had hoped to go along but a previous engagement with 150 good roads pilgrims who came to the lodge prevented his leaving.

The highway delegation brought Coolidge to Coolidge. In the party were Charles B. Porter and C. B. Coolidge, all of Lander, Wyo. They said they were accomplished drivers and intended to assist the President if he cared to make it a quiet.

Tomorrow the President and Mrs. Coolidge will motor 15 miles from the Game Lodge to Custer, S. D., for an open air celebration in honor of the discovery of gold in the Black Hills. Custer is the oldest city in the territory.

Urged to Conserve Oil Supply. Ralph Arnold, an oil prospector and geologist of Los Angeles, visited the President yesterday and urged that he support a move for the regulation of the Federal oil petroleum industry to conserve the nation's oil supply.

Arnold, who has brought in three new fields in Montana recently, said he was convinced of the accuracy of the Federal conservation bureau's belief that the country's oil supply would, under present processes, be exhausted within seven years.

He told the President that the Government should take every step necessary to "protect our country from future foes" through the conservation of oil.

"Our future safety," he added, "depends upon the oil supply, which cannot be operated without oil. A nation whose oil supply is exhausted will be at the mercy of any aggressor. If transportation fails, great cities would starve to death."

Visitor Favors Regulation. The prospector declared that he ordinarily was opposed to Government regulation of any kind but that in the case of petroleum he was convinced it was needed "because the oil industry will not regulate itself."

He suggested that the Government limit the number of borings and join with the states in framing laws to regulate the industry against waste of gas which comes to the surface with oil.

Another way to conserve oil, Arnold added was to prohibit its use by railroads, furnaces and all other devices which could use coal as well.

Arnold, who is also chairman of the Los Angeles Republican County Committee, declared that he believed that Mr. Coolidge would be re-nominated if he desired to do so. He said "California wants him and all factions there are for him, because of his hearty support of the Boulder Canyon dam project."

MORE CARS ARE NEEDED FOR MOVEMENT OF COMMODITIESBy the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Transportation of 27 of the country's principal commodities during the months of July, August and September of this year will require approximately 425,197 more cars than were needed during the same months last year, the American Railway Association estimated today.

Reports from the 13 shipping railroads, advisory boards, the association said, showed 9,925,580 cars would be needed for the three months, as compared with 9,500,383 for the same period last year.

SOUND-MEASURING DEVICE
TO HELP FLYERS LAND IN FOGInventor Says Instrument Will Show If Plane Is 500, 50 or 5 Feet Above Ground.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—C. Francis Jenkins, Washington inventor of several airplane devices, announced today that he had originated an apparatus to enable an aviator to make a safe landing in fog or mist.

It is in the nature of an altimeter, Jenkins said, which "makes use of the known velocity of sound. The function of the instrument is to measure the time which is taken for sound to travel to earth and back to the plane. It consists of a tiny motor, which, first of all, actuates a sound-producing mechanism, through which the sound is sent to the earth. It also operates a wheel spinning tiny light bulbs just behind the ground glass calibrated dial of the altimeter on the instrument board of the plane. "As the echo of the sound reaches a microphone attached to the plane, lamps are lighted back of the dial. The frequency of the sound, which the microphone caught by the microphone are transformed into flashes of light, and these flashes, appearing at various points on the calibrated dial, furnish the guiding marks which tell the aviator whether he is 500, 50 or 5 feet above the ground."

NATIONS MUST RE-ACCREDIT
DIPLOMATS TO BOY KINGCoolidge May Have to Invent New Address to Rumanian Ruler
in Official Letters.By the Associated Press.
BUCHAREST, July 26.—With the establishment of a regency in Rumania, following the death of King Ferdinand, all countries will be obliged to re-accredit their diplomatic representatives to King Michael. This is without precedent in Europe in recent times, the only analogous case being in Spain during the presentation of new credentials to the new king, Alfonso XIII.

It is expected that, instead of addressing the juvenile ruler as "my great and good friend," which has been the time-honored salutation of the President of the United States in letters of credence, President Coolidge will have to coin a new phrase for the boy king, or address the regency collectively.

By the Associated Press.
READING, Pa., July 26.—James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, was advised yesterday by a telegram from the State Department that a passport for him to visit Russia had been issued, and he turned over to the Shipping Board for visa.

Maurer, who was barred from sailing to England in 1919 and seized under the Espionage laws, had said he believed the State Department was again holding his papers. He will sail Wednesday as a member of an independent labor commission which will study conditions of the Soviet Union.

Postoffice Marksmen Cited. By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 26.—Joseph Fitz, special clerk of the Des Moines, Ia. post office, has been cited by Postmaster General New for his development of marksmanship with a .45 automatic. Firing five times in seven seconds at a 20-yard standard American target, he hit the bull-eyes, number 19, three months, as compared with 9,500,383 for the same period last year.

WILBUR SAYS PARITY MEANS
U. S. MUST BUILD UP NAVYTerms Discussed at Geneva Entail Increase in Strength to Equal Britain's—National Defense Calls for Sacrifice.By the Associated Press.
THOMASTON, Me., July 26.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, in an address yesterday at exercises in honor of the memory of Major General Henry Knox, the first Secretary of War after the Declaration of Independence in 1776, declared: "Progress is costly, but civilization is too precious for us to abandon the effort for security. Our liberties are too dearly purchased to be abandoned or jeopardized by indolence or indifference."

Referring to aviation he continued: "This new weapon for offense and defense—the airplane and its equipment—does not furnish a cheap and simple solution of the problems of national defense. It has not rendered obsolete either armies or navies, guns, tanks or ships."

"It has only added another essential element to the intricate equipment necessary to national defense against a well-prepared foe. It has added another element for the quick transportation of machine guns, bombs and men, and a new method of attack by machine guns, bomb and torpedo. It has given us a new method of intercommunication and scouting. It has added new peril to the enemy and a new source of defense to ourselves."

The fact is that the cost of aviation is a staggering addition to the load involved in the maintenance of national defense.

"But the expenditures for our navy are not a national loss in time of peace. The navy of the United States has become a great school or a great university for the training of the men and officers."

"The nations at Geneva, thought to prepare an agenda for the limitation of armaments and of military power, but the more the problem is studied, the more difficult it seems to effect such a limitation or such an agreement. 'The results of this conference are not manifest, but whatever they may be, the fact remains that if we are to have a navy, we must build one. If we are to maintain parity with Great Britain, it will be only because we build up and continue to maintain parity.'

"The point, after all, is that there is no royal road for the security of the nation. That security must depend upon sacrifices made by the people of the nation, upon a recognition of the facts concerning human life and human responsibilities, and a willingness to undertake the responsibilities incident to the advantages we have already achieved as a nation."

POLISH PRESIDENT DENES

Students Who Killed Soviet Envoy
in Warsaw Must Serve Life Term.

WARSAW, Poland, July 26.—Boris Kovceda, 19 years old, a student, found guilty in June of the murder of Peter Voikoff, Soviet Minister at Warsaw, will have to stay in prison for life, notwithstanding the recommendation of the Court to commute the sentence to 15 years' penal servitude.

The President of Poland, who was announced today, has declined to exercise his prerogative of extending mercy, in view of the fact that the victim was the representative of a foreign country.

M. Voikoff was assassinated June 7 at a railway station where he had gone to bid good-by to A. P. Rosenberg, former Soviet representative in London.

MEXICO CITY CROWDS
WELCOME GEN. OBREGONFormer President Arrives on Special Train to Direct Organization of Campaign.

MEXICO CITY, July 26.—A great demonstration occurred here today to welcome Gen. Obregon, when he reached the capital for the first time since he decided to stand for re-election as President. Obregon's friends estimate that at least 100,000 admirers were gathered when the General arrived.

Obregon came south after a campaign in the western states and will remain here until his program, which is in the hands of Aaron Saenz, former Foreign Minister, has been thoroughly organized. On leaving his special train, Obregon was acclaimed by thousands of persons and bands played the national anthem, while a bodyguard of 500 men in compact formation, armed with stout sticks, escorted the candidate.

The motor car in which Obregon, his son and others, rode to the police headquarters, was damaged in the crush. Many motorcycle police were on hand to prevent the crowd from rushing Obregon. In their rear came one of the longest processions ever seen here. Heading the column were 100 persons on horseback in picturesque Mexican costumes. A number of children were among them.

The decoration was bestowed at the formal opening yesterday of the new $150,000 hospital at St. Anthony.

SACCO - VANZETTI
ADVISORY BOARD
DRAWING REPORTMeets Today Following Arguments of Counsel—
Gov. Fuller to Interview
Ten More Witnesses.DECISION LIKELY BEFORE AUGUST 5On That Date Expire the Reprieves of the Two Radicals Sentenced to Death for Murder.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, July 26.—After listening for five hours to final arguments of attorneys on both sides, Gov. Fuller's advisory committee on the Sacco-Vanzetti case ended its formal investigation at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The committee meets this morning to begin its deliberations, and it is not improbable that the opinions of the three members—President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, President Samuel Stratton of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Judge Robert Grant—will be ready for the Governor before Aug. 5, when the Governor must decide whether it will be necessary to grant another reprieve to the two radicals under sentence of death for murder.

Before leaving the State House in mid-afternoon yesterday the Governor announced that today he would interview at least ten witnesses, suggested by defense attorneys, who have not previously appeared at the State House. This information was something of a surprise, as it was understood last week that the Governor had decided to interview the witnesses.

The Governor also said he would pay another visit to the State Prison. When he called there Friday his three was limited, and when he came away Vanzetti had not concluded his explanation as to his failure to take the witness stand at his trial at Plymouth. The Governor would like to hear the rest of that story, and he also intends to talk more fully with Celestino F. Maderros and with James F. Weeks and Manuel Pacheco, who were friends and accomplices of Maderros in some of his crimes, and are now serving long sentences. The Sacco-Vanzetti defense believes these two men can corroborate Maderros' confession that a gang of which he was a member took part in the South Braintree holdup murders and that Sacco and Vanzetti were not present.

It had been expected that the Governor would make his second trip to Charlestown today, but he announced that he was going to his summer home at Rye Beach, N. H. Both prisoners refused breakfast and lunch today. Sacco was visited for an hour by his wife and two children. Mrs. Sacco refused to comment on her husband's hunger strike or physical condition.

COOK COUNTY SEEKS PERMIT
TO REGULATE AVIATIONAppeal to Government Request of Airplane Crash Sunday With Three Fatalities.

CHICAGO, July 26.—Measures designed to bring about safer flying conditions in Cook County under regulation of the Aviation Committee of the County Board are sought by Anton J. Cernak, president of the board, following an accident Sunday night in which three persons were killed when a plane crashed.

Cernak sent a telegram to William F. McCracken, Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aviation, requesting that the Government give the County Board power to supervise commercial aviation in this area.

"I believe a repetition of such an air tragedy will be averted if we can supervise commercial aviation," Cernak said.

Another safety move, one affecting motorists, was taken when Alderman John Toman recommended to the City Council that drivers obtain licenses and be required to pass physical and mental examinations before operating cars. The resolution was referred to the Traffic Committee.

Marx Resigns From Association. By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, July 26.—A divergence of views between Chancellor Wilhelm Marx and the leaders of the Reichs Banner Association has resulted in the resignation of the Chancellor from this Republican organization. In a letter to the leaders of the association, which was organized to counteract nationalistic propaganda, Chancellor Marx declared that the attitude of the leaders, especially in connection with the Vienna riots, forced him to resign his membership. The Chancellor characterized the leaders' attitude toward the Austrian Government as "unjustified interference in the political affairs of Austria and a serious disparagement and insult to the Austrian Government."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress or reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to speak wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Was Dog Oat Right?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Can you justify the practice by which corporations in St. Louis exclude men past 35 or 40 years from getting employment? I have applied for work time and again only to be told, "We have nothing at present." Was Dog Oat right?

What can be done to prevent the terrific noise of the street cars? This noise is nerve-racking. If every automobile made the noise the street cars make, the city would have to build as many insane asylums as we have apartment houses. Why not have street cars and automobiles street cars entirely?

Speed, Service and Constructive Criticism

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am sure the officials of the Postal Department appreciated the letter by J. D. H. sometime ago in this column calling the attention of the public to delay in some special delivery letters to Chicago, sent via air mail. The air mail is to speed up the deliveries, so is special delivery. Some persons answering his letter have gained the impression that J. D. H. committed less majesty. There is nothing wrong in calling attention to lack of service. The Spirit of St. Louis is for speed, service and constructive criticism like that of J. D. H. helps warm up the good spirit.
BONEHEAD.

Finds St. Louis an Intellectual Desert.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have lived in St. Louis for nearly a year now and have yet to meet a thoroughly intelligent person. It seems to me that a city that supports a paper like the Post-Dispatch should have quite a number of them. If so, I would like to hear from at least one.

I happen to be not in the least interested in baseball, prize fights, dog races, jazz and the rest of such intellectual subjects with which the minds of my neighbors and fellow-workers seem to be entirely occupied. Consequently my state is lonely indeed, even desperately so at times. My kingdom for the companionship of an intelligent person.

Thinks Auto Mechanics Unreliable.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE very commendable campaign now being made to reduce automobile casualties would get good results if some drastic measures of discipline were applied to the average so-called mechanic. Every car owner and driver knows how inefficient, how unreliable these fellows are as a rule. And, to say the boss of the shop himself is not free of blame. You leave your car at a shop, supposed to be trustworthy, and give instructions to have it thoroughly examined and adjusted, placing no limit upon either the time allowed or the cost of the job; you call for your car and are told it is all right, and you dig deep to pay the bill; but generally you find within a very little while that some important defect has been ignored. Sometimes you discover this after a serious accident. Why should a suffering public put up with such service?
AUTO OWNER.

As to Reorganizers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HOPE the Post-Dispatch will continue to keep the people informed as to what is happening in St. Louis public utility organizations. I do not think there is any doubt that Charles Munroe, former owner of the gas company, sold out his interests at a large profit because you had the goods on him. It is not often that a newspaper—even in a large city—goes so painstakingly into the details of public utility transactions as you do. You printed about the Laclede company stories couched in marvelously clear terms about a very complicated financial scheme. Anybody could understand them.

The same is true of the information you have given us about the reorganization of the U. S. Ordinarily a deal like this would go through with scarcely any public notice. They could not have had the benefit of this kind of newspapering in Kansas City and Indianapolis, or the jobs put over on those communities in relation to the street railways and the waterworks would have been impossible. The people aren't up on high finance. It is hard for them to grasp the salient facts of such involved affairs. So far as I know, you are the first newspaper in the country to burrow into them and tell about them in a simple way. Even the Mayor, who finally has refused to let the Newman crowd talk turkey to him, has I dare say, learned about Newman from you.

There is nothing like shedding the light of pitiless publicity on the wealth of our public utilities and let us hold the bag. It is time we got wise. We got wise too late in the Munroe case. But that episode taught us a valuable lesson.
J. M. T.

THE STREET RAILWAYS FRANCHISE.

Misinformation which is being given to the public by advocates of the franchise suggests that the franchise could, and should, include (1) an agreed valuation, and (2) a provision permitting the city to cancel the franchise if the company should ever attack the agreed valuation in court.

As the Post-Dispatch has repeatedly pointed out, court decisions show that no such provision would be binding on the company; that no condition as to valuation, service or anything else which might affect fares, would be legal. The franchise under which the United Railways are now operating provided for a 5-cent fare, but the courts knocked out this provision because its effect was to deprive the company of the legal rate of return on the value of its property, to which it is entitled under any franchise.

Another misleading statement is that any unnecessary interest the company may pay on money it borrows (as a possible result of not getting a new franchise) adds that much to the burden upon car riders. As everyone knows who understands the public utility question, the laws are now interpreted to allow the utility a legal rate of return—7.1 per cent the Missouri commission has allowed the United Railways—on the value of the property over and above operating expenses. Therefore, if a company should borrow the full sum of its valuation through the sale of securities to the public at an average rate of 6 per cent interest, it would have a net profit 1.1 per cent on this total valuation and fares would not be affected in the slightest. If the United Railways' fantastic claim to $100,000,000 valuation were allowed, it would be entitled to $7,100,000 a year above its operating expenses and the fare would be fixed by the commission so as to provide that return. What the company did with the $7,100,000 would be its own affair; whether it paid out only $1,000,000 of that amount or all of it in interest would not affect the fare.

A third misstatement is that because Kansas City is enjoying a lower fare than St. Louis this city ought to be able to make as good a bargain with the United Railways in the form of a franchise.

The Post-Dispatch long ago exploded the Kansas City parallel. While the fare is lower there the company cannot be held to any of the provisions of its new franchise which affect fares, and the State Commission may, at any time, reopen the whole question. The simple reason for this is that a franchise confers a RIGHT upon the company, the most important element of which is the legal return on the value of its property in the public service, and as the courts have held no provisions, or agreements, as in the case of the 5-cent fare here, can deprive the franchise-holding company of that right, once it gets the franchise.

Permits to operate public utilities, such as the bus companies have in this city, are entirely different. They give the companies not a RIGHT but only a PRIVILEGE, and upon such conditions as the city names, including the condition that the permit may be revoked by the city.

OCOTAL AND AMRITSAR.

We note that Gen. Reginald E. H. Dyer, former commander of British troops in India and author of the Amritsar massacre, has just died in England. It was at Amritsar in 1919 that several hundred civilians were killed at Dyer's order.

The General, however, did not succumb without the knowledge that others are carrying on the ruthless tradition of conquest with which he is so indissolubly identified. At least, we presume that he heard all about Ocotal, the American version of Amritsar, before he died.

FREE SPEECH IN THE AIR.

In the air, at least, there is such a thing as free speech.

This is the meaning of the fact that Joseph F. Rutherford was permitted to transmit, by means of the greatest "hook-up" in radio history, a speech denouncing the clergy, politicians and financiers as agents of the devil.

It came about as a result of a dare which Rutherford issued to Merlin H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., at a hearing before the Federal Radio Commission. Though Aylesworth is reported to have accepted the challenge in a moment of irritation, his action was one of those intuitive moves which show quite as much wisdom as more deliberate decisions. For what it amounted to was an utter repudiation of Rutherford's claim that the privilege of broadcast was not open to persons with heterodox political, economic and theological ideas. By letting him air his opinions in a wholesome manner, the broadcasting company proved that the air was free, just as it would reaffirm this fact by allowing someone to reply to his assertions. However, while availing himself of the free air in this country, he was not so sure of the freedom of the country itself, and took the precaution to speak from Canada.

We congratulate Mr. Aylesworth and the National Broadcasting Co. for giving a fair trial to the ancient Anglo-Saxon theory that the safest way to treat heresy is to let it blow off its steam. And we suggest to the persons who may have been pained by Mr. Rutherford's words that their best means of consolation is in recalling Voltaire's sage comment: "I disagree wholly with what you say, and shall insist to the death upon your right to say it."

Judge Gary thinks the country is fortunate in having a President like Mr. Coolidge, and, not to be outdone in the amenities, the country thinks that Mr. Gary is fortunate in having a President like Mr. Coolidge.

THE COAL STRIKE.

The news that Ohio coal mine operators are buying machine guns in order to protect strike breakers will remind the public that a coal strike of no mean proportions has for some weeks been taking place. It should also cause the public to realize that if this strike is not settled within the next three months or so, the public's pocketbook is likely to be hit about as hard as the local gas company and street railway reorganizers would like to hit it.

Unfortunately, it appears that there is no settlement in prospect. The United Mine Workers, on the one hand, have a large strike fund, and are determined to use all their resources to rehabilitate their prestige, which has been severely waning as the miners of such States as West Virginia and Kentucky have deserted it. The operators, on the other hand, have a great surplus of coal on top of the ground, and rather welcomed the strike as a convenient method of securing a summer shutdown.

Both sides, in other words, are in a position to sit tight, while the demand for coal and the shrinking supply above ground enables the cost of the strike to be passed on to the public.

If this burden becomes unbearable, as it well may, the public may unite with the miners in demanding Federal control of mines, which was hinted at in the proposals of the Federal Coal Commission in 1923. If the Ohio operators want to hasten such demands, which they obviously do not, they are taking an effective method in stocking up with machine guns and ammunition.

OUR NICARAGUAN APOLOGISTS.

The Kansas City Star is typical of our Nicaraguan apologists. It thinks it "unfortunate that the United States has to interfere" in the domestic affairs of that country "and thus be held up as an oppressor of a free people nobly struggling to achieve self-government," but "in spite of protests that this is only autocracy tempered by assassination, there seems nothing else to do."

What happened at Ocotal has lost to the administration a considerable body of public opinion that had sanctioned, though not without misgivings, the simpler adventure of merely policing the railroad and the principal towns to see that the property of aliens did not suffer from civil conflict. Very few of the newspapers feel that we should have become involved, and that far from the railroad, in a pitched battle which cost the lives of 300 Nicaraguans. Nevertheless, like the Star, some of the stancher newspaper supporters of the administration insist that what has happened is more unfortunate than it is immoral.

To such depths does the national morality sink in the march of empire. The massacre at Ocotal was the consequence of our initial blunder in undertaking to interfere in the domestic troubles of Nicaragua. Senator Borah tried to warn the administration that to occupy the country with our armed forces would be to involve ourselves in war with the Nicaraguan people, and it did. What we could have done months ago was to have admitted the immorality and folly of what we were doing and got out. It is harder to withdraw the marines now that it would have been then. It will be harder still when Gen. Sandino, availing himself of the inflated feeling against us in Nicaragua, heads a still larger army and we have to kill 600.

Before that happens we should get out and let the country adjust its own differences. The interests of American bankers and lumbermen for whom we have gone to such lengths are entirely too slight to cost us the enmity of all Latin America. If Nicaragua refuses to put her house in order, we can ask the other Latin-American countries to join with us in keeping the peace there. We should not bear the onus of it alone. Doing so, we are in no better moral position than France was in subduing the Riffians or Spain was in fighting the Cubans.

Detroit's municipal street railways have in five years paid their operating expenses, grown with the city and paid $13,000,000 upon their indebtedness, all on a 6-cent fare. Yet with an 8-cent fare the reorganizers of our own street railways system say they must have a 30-year franchise to develop and pay out!

OF ALL PLACES!

A baseball game at Frederick, Md., was interrupted Sunday by law officers, who loaded 26 players and two umpires into trucks and haled them before a Justice of the Peace. They were charged with the awful crime of playing baseball on Sunday, in violation of the blue laws.

We wouldn't be surprised if this should happen in crummy Kansas, or in Georgia, the home of the Invisible Empire, or in California, where bigotry outshines the sun, or in the backwoods of New England. But think of it happening in Maryland, which prides itself as the Maryland Free State!

Maryland may be free six days of the week, but on Sundays it certainly relapses into lugubrious medievalism.

VICE PRESIDENT DAWES WANTS IT KNOWN THAT HE would never stoop to using angle worms for bait. What do you make of that, Watson?

HAIR-SPLITTING IN THE LEAGUE.

In objecting to a recent statement by Wayne B. Wheeler, press agent and lobbyist extraordinary of the Anti-Saloon League, on the subject of the forthcoming presidential campaign, Bishop Cannon and the Rev. Dr. Barton, two other officials of the league, succeeded nicely in splitting a hair 'twixt the south and southwest side. That portion of the Wheeler "press release" to which his coadjutors take exception is as follows:

There will be at least one of the national dominant parties which will have a satisfactory candidate for the maintenance and enforcement of the eighteenth amendment. There is a possibility that both will be satisfactory. Then the league keeps hands off. If Gov. Smith is nominated and the dregs in the South would rather vote for an independent dry candidate for President than for a dry Republican, this would give them a chance to register their protest.

This, of course, is a threat on the part of Pooh-Bah Wheeler to aid in bringing out an independent dry Democrat if the Democrats should nominate a wet, and the press generally so construed it. Now come Dr. Cannon and Barton with an assurance to the country that Dr. Wheeler was misunderstood, and that, anyway, he was speaking only in his personal capacity. Dr. Wheeler is rebuked thus:

We do not think it accurate, appropriate or helpful for any league official to declare that one party (in this case the Republican party, as the context clearly implies) will nominate a candidate satisfactory to the Anti-Saloon League of America, while the Democrats may nominate a wet candidate, and furthermore to imply that many dry Southern Democrats would be too narrow to vote for the satisfactory dry Republican, but would demand the nomination of an independent dry Democrat, even though there would be absolutely no possibility of his election.

Wherein did Wheeler offend? Simply in stating too bluntly the established policy of the league, which is to make use of every available political device to the sole end of electing dry candidates over wets, without regard to any other considerations of fitness or unfitness.

Rapid City reports that the President, by authority of the flexible provision of the Tariff Act, has reduced the duty on refined creosote acid. This, we take it, will end the Middle Western farm rebellion.

YESTERDAY—TODAY—TOMORROW?

PRESIDENT AND PRESS

Willis Sharp in The Atlantic Monthly

IT has been repeatedly charged of late that the press of the country has become commercialized out of all independence of thought and spirit.

Perhaps this is too sweeping an indictment. Unquestionably there are a few great papers in which still throb sound journalistic souls and which, in spite of huge profits, retain their virility and fighting heart. But in the main the charge is true and every posted person knows it.

It is the meek acquiescence of the press as a whole in the rebukes delivered and the restrictions imposed upon it by the present occupant of the White House that to my mind, better than anything else, evidences its lack of spirit and the absence of self-respect. Perhaps those are harsh words, but there seems some justification for them.

Take for instance the state to which the biweekly White House conferences between the correspondents and the President have been reduced. The theory of these conferences is that they are occasions on which the press, representing all shades of opinion, may ask questions of the President and receive, if not answers, at least the courtesy of a reply that the President has nothing to say on that subject. That theory is now in the Coolidge rules have made it absurd. The correspondents may not say that they saw the President. They may not say that an official spokesman said what the President said. In effect these conferences are now reduced to occasions when Mr. Coolidge secretly tells an obedient press what he would like to have printed about himself—and that is all that is printed. The newspapers, through their acquiescence, have become little more than the personal publicity machine of Mr. Coolidge.

But he (Mr. Coolidge) has gone further and put his small foot down on the press and to the people than the right to deal with him on approximately equal terms in the press conferences. Four times now has he expressed the view in effect that the newspapers have no right to criticize the administration in matters of foreign policy, and evidenced his resentment over such criticism. Three of these occasions were at the aforementioned conferences with the Washington correspondents; one was in a public speech at New York, delivered at a dinner given by the United Press. . . . If there is a parallel to this I have not been able to find it. If any other President or any other public man in America has assumed a similar attitude no one has pointed it out.

It seems absurd, of course, to liken Mr. Coolidge to Mussolini. Two more utterly different types hardly exist. Yet their views on the value of liberty of the press and liberty of speech are apparently not far apart, and it would be possible easily to make a very striking parallel between the abject subservience of the Italian press to the Duce and the subservience which Mr. Coolidge desires of the American press to our Government's conduct of foreign affairs—a subservience that, if yielded, logically would lead to like subservience in domestic affairs.

Imagine if you can the indignation and piercing howls that would have gone up from the newspapers had the late Woodrow Wilson enunciated any such view as this as the duty of the press to support him. Recall if you can the attitude of the bulk of the press toward the Wilson policies during the Paris Peace Conference.

Contrast what Mr. Wilson went through, in the shape of press criticism, with the New Republic and the Nation. Not more than half a dozen daily papers have been even mildly critical. The chief of these is the New York World, and it is believed it was largely of the World that Mr. Coolidge complained. Certainly no other New York paper, no Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cleveland, Kansas City, Detroit, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, or San Francisco paper has differed with Mr. Coolidge to any considerable degree on either domestic or foreign policy. Except from the World in New York, the Sun in Baltimore, the Post-Dispatch in St. Louis, the criticism which Mr. Coolidge maintains has handicapped his administration in his dealings with foreign countries seems to be almost non-existent.

What of the press? By excessive praise the press builds Mr. Coolidge up to a point where support appears to him not a favor but a duty. He then publicly rebuked it as a whole for the devotion of a few, indicates his belief that it should play a subservient and not an independent part in politics, and the newspapers for the most part humbly transmit his rebuke to the people, thus misrepresenting not the President but themselves. The thing would be ludicrous if it had not its serious side.

LIGHT LYRICS FOR WARM WEATHER.

Oh, throw away your fables of the classic days now dead,
The tales of mighty Hercules that as a child I read;
The thrilling tales of heroes of the Romans and the Greeks,
The stirring deeds of ancient Troy of which old Homer speaks;
Then bid you to the ball park of a better, brighter day,
And see prodigious feats of skill as two new heroes play;
Beside these two what hero old could ever mortal wish—
The marvel that is Slater and the lightning that is Frisch?

How small a thing the standing of the Brownies in the race
While Frisch, the champion, all George Slater's skill and grace!
How futile is all throwing and how short-ended seems all space
When either George or Frisch Frisch de-
The idols of my yearning all had feet of brittle clay.
My idols are forgotten now—I've seen new heroes play;
The gods may have ambrosia, but make the gods a public visit and our actions with fear, distrust and hate.

The marvel that is Slater and the lightning that is Frisch.

TINY TOT TODDLES TO THRONE.

The crying need of childhood is a hero of its own age. It is all very well to tell children that papa always washed his neck and behind his ears when he was small, but childhood cannot comprehend that an adult ever was small. Besides, papa may not be the child's hero. We forget who ate his mush every morning. Perhaps it was Brian Boru. We always ate the mush, not that we cared about Brian Boru, but the real reason was that the mush and the detours were allowed. It was the boy's door, if memory is not at fault, who never cracked down on his little slater with the toy choo-choo train. We conceived a violent dislike of the boy next door. And one's heroes must be adored with a blind adoration, when we could read, we had heroes, but what is needed is an acceptable model for what we psychologists call the "pre-school child." Michael I. King of Rumania, fills the long-felt want. He actually lives at the present time, and he is a real King. Children know what Kings are; they are something like father, only much more powerful. Now, children, little Mike, the King of Rumania, always gets up when he is called in the morning.

"DOLLAR PRINCESS"

SUNG IN THE PARK

Municipal Opera Company Presents Leo Fall's Farce With Music Before Big Crowd.

"THE DOLLAR PRINCESS" by Leo Fall, presented by the Municipal Opera Company, was the first of the series of musical plays to be given at the Forest Park Stage. From a musical standpoint the choice of this old piece for the Municipal Theater's repertory was not a happy one. Property speaking "The Dollar Princess" is a farce with incidental music. The actors have long parts to speak and play, and incidentally, still to learn. As has been pointed out before, farces, which require quick action and rapid dialogue are not fitted for presentation on a stage as vast as the one in Forest Park. Exits and entrances are necessarily slow and stilted. Let it be said here that the Municipal company has such a following, a very large one, and despite its faults "The Dollar Princess" is a farce for the purpose of the story.

The play is in three acts. The first is devoted almost entirely to getting the plot, which concerns an American coal baron who makes a specialty of hiring titled foreigners for menial positions, launched. The millionaire's daughter and a son and getting their married off is the rest of the story.

Not until the second act, when Robinson Newbold makes his entrance, does the performance pick up. Newbold, with his certain methods, makes the matter in hand and from then on the piece moves fairly rapidly and entertainingly.

There are some pretty musical numbers in the play which were well sung but the large and pleasing chorus, really the backbone of the Municipal organization, has very few opportunities to distinguish itself. Charlotte Woodruff, making her debut last night as the prima-donna of the company, proved to be a pretty young woman with a pleasing voice and a nice personality. Miss Yago, the contralto, in the role of the foreign tamer possum as a countess, has the best part she has had since the summer season opened and she made the most of it throughout.

The performance last night ran until 11:30 but this will be considerably but down during the rest of the week when the actors become more familiar with their lines and the situations.

Next week the company will present "Katinka."

CHARGES U. S. WITH BACKING MINORITY RULE IN NICARAGUA

ances convenient and profitable to our own material interests, aided by our marines, sent to Nicaragua without the consent of Congress supported since 1911 a government representing a minority of its people.

"Second: We have caused a fratricidal and friendly people in a sister republic to engage in actions with fear, distrust and hate.

"Third: We are now attempting to secure through reprehensible methods and intrigue, control of the national railways and the national bank in order that we may have a valid excuse for intervention when the political situation demands.

"Fourth: We have been meddling in Nicaragua to the extent of hand-picking a President. It may be inquired why we do not choose one capable of maintaining an orderly and effective government, one sufficiently strong to insure the guarantees expected of it without the help of our Marines.

"Rights Secured Are Tainted.

"Fifth: We negotiated the Nicaraguan Canal treaty in 1914 without the free consent of a sovereign people. Under the circumstances surrounding its negotiation, if impartially viewed, the rights secured under its terms were tainted from the start. Our Government at that time disdained all deceit and evasion, to all intents and purposes, entered into a contract practically with itself when it bargained with its maintained in-office agent, Dr. Frisch.

"Sixth: There must be strong reasons dictating the desire to maintain in office one so unpopulous as to be willing to barter the autonomy of his country for a 'mass of' to remain in power. Is there other recompense? Such a willingness should not appeal to those of us who believe in representative and free government.

"Seventh: Since 1911 practically one-eighth of all salaries paid employees had been paid to appointees of the State Department or of bankers, a large part of which, because of the generous provisions

TERMINAL IMPROVEMENTS

NEW TEAM YARD, MAIN AND O'FALLON

This Is One of a Series of Statements Showing
WHAT THE TERMINAL IS DOING FOR ST. LOUIS

1. A substantial addition to the Terminal facilities is the new Main and O'Fallon Street team yard, shown in the accompanying picture, just recently opened, which represents an investment of $1,000,000.00.

2. This yard, paved with granite, is conveniently located in the heart of the jobbing, produce and fruit districts. It has a capacity of 180 cars, and supplements the team yards at Carr, Biddle, Collins, Tyler and Brooklyn Streets, which serve the same area.

3. This completes a chain of team yards on the Terminal in St. Louis, 32 in number, capacity 2200 cars, that furnish excellent and convenient service for the loading and unloading of carload freight, involving the shortest possible truck haul. This saves time and money for those served.

4. Constructive criticism is invited.

HENRY MILLER,
President,
Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis.

TERMINAL IMPROVEMENTS
The Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis is engaged in a series of improvements to the Terminal facilities. The new Main and O'Fallon Street team yard is one of the most important of these improvements. It is a large, modern building with a flat roof and multiple windows. It is surrounded by trees and other structures in the background.

FORMER DRY LAW CHIEF FAVORS REPEAL BILL

Supports Wisconsin Move to Abolish State's Prohibition Enforcement Statute.

By the Associated Press.
MADISON, Wis., July 26.—A message of congratulations has been sent to Senator Polakowski, for his introduction of a substitute amendment to repeal the state's prohibition enforcement law, by the former State prohibition commissioner, W. Stanley Smith of Madison.

"Please accept my congratulations," the former commissioner said. "My services as State prohibition chief convinced me that the law could not be enforced with so large a percentage of the people antagonistic to the unwarranted and paternalistic interference with their personal rights."

"That feeling of antagonism was emphatically manifest at the referendum last year, and it would seem that the legislature is but following the mandate of the people to remove from our statute books the iniquitous law that has been of no benefit or profit to anyone but the bootlegger and grafter."

"Every expression of the people of Wisconsin, whether by referendum or by the wiping-out of such harmful enactments of enforcement by its legislature will furnish to the country and to Congress the most convincing argument for the repeal of the Federal law and of the constitutional amendment which properly, has no place in the charter of human rights with its guarantees of individual rights and liberties.

"It is no 'traitorous violation of law or disloyalty to the flag' to differ by word or act with the families, who forced upon our people in an unguarded moment of national trial, this harmful law that has wrought so much of danger to the homes and especially to the young people of our land."

Phil Ball to Scrap Brown Machine; Club Big Loser on Season

Only Four Players of 25 Meet Unanimous Approval of Board of Strategy—Sisler May Be Among Those to Go at End of Present Campaign.

By John E. Wray
Sports Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Despairing of making any headway with his present array of fading veterans and reconditioned ballplayers, President Philip De Catesby Ball of the Browns today declared he has planned to completely wreck his present club and to build an entirely new outfit before the season opens next year.

The failure of the reinforcements of 1927 to help the club and the complete downfall of the old line pitchers have caused the team to slip back and the attendance and gate receipts to drop even lower. President Ball estimated that his club is already $100,000 in the "red ink," which follows a loss of $76,000 last year.

Four Out of 25 Meet Approval.

"We had hoped that the present outfit would come to life this year. Believing that 1926 was not a fair test of the team's merits," Ball told the writer. "We are now completely disillusioned. The team will be torn apart. At a recent meeting between Howley, Friess, Killefer and myself, we could agree on only four men who were unanimously voted as necessary to the club's future.

"Others, of course, were considered desirable by some of us; but the fact remains that only a quarter of the 25 players on the club roster received the unanimous endorsement of all of us."

Ball would not disclose who the four unanimously named players were, but admitted that Sisler was not one of them.

"Do you intend to dispense of Sisler?"

"Sisler is about the best trading material we have, but I will not say at this time that we will dispose of any particular player. But you can depend upon it that there is nothing sacred about Sisler or any other player's connection with this team. If we can strengthen the club by sale or trade."

"Sisler has been something of a disappointment to me, although he has been a good player."

DELANEY, TOO HEAVY, GIVES UP HIS TITLE

New York Commission Gives Him Permission to Box as a Full-Fledged Heavyweight.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Because of his claim that he no longer can make the class weight of 175 pounds, Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., light heavyweight champion for the past year, today relinquished the title and was given permission by the State Athletic Commission to fight as a full-fledged heavyweight.

Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, emerged from the commission meeting to announce the fighter's action, which, he added, paved the way for Delaney to fight Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, at the Yankee Stadium on Aug. 11 under the promotion of Tex Rickard. Both fighters already have come to terms with Rickard for the match.

Mike McTigue, who was to have fought Delaney Aug. 11 for the light heavyweight title, will be recognized as the "leading contender" and given title recognition by the commission if he defeats some "worthy opponent" this summer, according to Reilly and Jimmy Johnston, McTigue's manager. McTigue is ready to meet either Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia or Paul Berlenbach, former champion, to demonstrate his championship claims.

Delaney decided to give up the title, according to Reilly, when he weighed 178, three pounds over the class limit, after several weeks of training for the McTigue fight.

McTigue's action on Delaney, the commission's formal announcement added that McTigue in view of the fact that he had signed for the title fight, would be recognized at once as the light heavyweight champion, providing he agreed within 30 days to meet Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia contender. The commission preferred Loughran to Berlenbach as a challenger.

In the featherweight case, however, title recognition will go to the winner of a bout between Chapman and either Benny Bass of Philadelphia or Tony Cassano of New York, the two boxers picked out as the Boston boxer's foremost rivals.

Browns Lose First Game, 15-1

THE BROWNS lost the first game of today's double header to the Yanks, 15 to 1. Details and box score will be found on next page.

Mehlhorn Leads Field in $5000 Leeds Tourney

Bill Shoots 68 in Qualifying Round, One Stroke Over Course Record.

By the Associated Press.

LEEDS, England, July 26.—"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn with a fine 68 led the field in the first qualifying round of the $5000 Leeds golf tournament which is being conducted by the Yorkshire Evening News.

The American was at the top of his game and failed by only a single stroke to equal the record for this event established by his compatriot, Joe Kirkwood, four years ago. Mehlhorn might even have broken this record but for his one serious mistake at the eleven. Here he found the bunker with his second shot, took two to get out and missed a yard putt on the green.

Mehlhorn was in 36. He came home in 32, which was the more remarkable because he found the rough at the first hole but came back with a great shot over the trees and got a four.

The only other American entry, Larry Nabholz, was well up with a 72.

A record number of professionals was striving to land among the 22 to qualify over the 24-hole route for match play beginning on Thursday and ending on Saturday with a 36-hole final.

By the Associated Press.
ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 26.—Because of a practical joke intended to frighten his uncle, Paul Tinsley, may face a charge of manslaughter, authorities here declared. The uncle, James W. Tinsley, died "from natural causes induced by the emotion of fear," a Coroner's jury yesterday ruled, after his nephew had visited him while he was alone in his home and frightened him.

The younger Tinsley admitted the attempt. He said he believed his uncle fired a shotgun at him.

NEW TRIAL DENIED BIRGER AND AIDS; MEN SENTENCED

Hyland Joins Newman in Accepting Life Sentences, but Appeal Is Made as Legal Formality.

DATE OF HANGING SET
BY JUDGE FOR OCT. 15

Gangsters to Start for Prison Tomorrow or Friday—
"Might Be Worse Next Time," Says One.

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.

BENTON, Ill., July 27.—New trials for Charlie Birger, condemned to death and for Art Newman and Ray Hyland, sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City, were denied today by Circuit Judge Miller, after counsel for Birger alone had presented arguments.

Birger then was formally sentenced by Judge Miller to die on the gallows Oct. 15, and Hyland and Newman received their formal sentences to the penitentiary. They had presented motions for a new trial as a mere formality, both having announced their decision to accept the jury's verdict. Their counsel, H. R. Dial and W. F. Dillon, did not argue on the motions.

Charles Karch and Robert Smith, representing Birger, presented arguments which followed closely the allegations set forth in the motion. State's Attorney Martin opposed the motion in a brief speech.

Birger's only recourse now is an appeal to the Supreme Court to reverse the death sentence.

Hyland and Newman will leave for prison tomorrow or Friday.

"I am going ahead and take my best and make the best of it," Hyland said. "It might be worse next time."

Newman Still Has Hope. . . Hyland was linked by strong, direct testimony as the driver of the car used by Harry and Elmo Thompson in assassinating Adams at the order of Charlie Birger, condemned leader of the gang. Had Hyland got a new trial he might be sentenced to the gallows by another jury. As for Newman, who places his trust in friends who will seek clemency for him as a reward for his services to the State.

In discussing his decision Hyland expressed regret that he must desert Birger, who is making an appeal from a death sentence. Birger hired Hyland's lawyer for him and offered to pay for Newman's lawyer. Newman chose to have the court appoint him counsel as a poor person rather than accept aid from Birger.

The motions for a new trial were based on allegations of prejudice and errors in the record. Most of the defense complaints were against Judge Miller's rulings on motions for severance, challenge of the jury array, bill of particulars and change of venue presented during the trial. The Judge had denied all these motions.

Federal Warrant for Aviator Who

Admitted Bombing Cabin.

Department of Justice agents today obtained warrants at East St. Louis charging Elmer Kane, Waterloo, la., aviator, and Henry Mondale, not described, with the transportation of a stolen automobile from Illinois to Memphis, Tenn.

The information states that Kane and Mondale received the stolen car from the late Mayor Joe Adams of West City in part payment for their work in bombing "Shady Row," a Charlie Birger's fortified cabin, from an airplane, last Nov. 12.

Kane was arrested at Waterloo July 16 and admitted he was the man who bombed Birger's cabin after being hired by Adams. He said he got an automobile and $1000 for the job. State's Attorney Arlie Roswell of Williamson County informed Waterloo authorities there were no charges against Kane and he was released.

TRAIN FIREMAN SAVES BOY

Runs to Pilot of Moving Engine and Pushes Him Aside.

BUNCETON, Mo., July 27.—

Verne Lee, 14-month-old son of Virgil Oswald, Bunce-ton farmer, was saved from death Saturday by a local freight between Tipson and Booneville. The boy had wandered onto the track. When the mother heard the whistle she saw the train rounding the curve 30 feet away.

Engineer F. M. Roberts applied the brakes. Schmidt, realizing it would be impossible for the train to stop, raced along the running board of the engine, dropped down on the pilot and pushed the key aside. The engine paused two car lengths past the place before stopping.
